GEORGIA'S FIRST DUTY—PAY THE STATE SCHOOL TEACHERS THE SIX MONTHS MONEY THEY HAVE EARNED

WILL TAKE VOTE TO SETTLE ISSUE OF SENATE BATTLE

Anderson Claims Certain Victory, But Allen Says Roll Call Must Decide the Contest.

DENIES REPORTS THAT HE WOULD WITHDRAW

Anti-Saloon League Letter to Candidates Depended Upon to Shake Line-Up—Burwell Is Next Speaker.

The impression seemed general in the lobby of the Kimball house last night that J. Randolph Anderson, of the first senatorial district, would be elected president of the state senate today over his rival, John T. Allen, of the twentieth.

It has been a most strongly contested battle on both sides, and it is most probable, despite rumors current last night that Judge Allen would retire from the race, that the battle will be fought out to the end in the senate chamber this morning.

The Anderson contingent were jubilant after a caucus held at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, at which twenty-seven senators pledged to the Savannah man's support were said to have been present. Two other senators, who are known to be supporters of Mr. Anderson, had not arrived in the city at the time of the caucus, but one of them came in later, and both, it is said, will be present and vote for Mr. Anderson when the roll is called today.

This showing would assure Mr. Anderson's election, and the only hope of his rival now seems to be in being able to change some of the Anderson senators before the vote is counted.

Allen Still in Fight.

But the Allen forces declare that they have not given up the fight by any means. While they admit that Mr. Anderson seemed to have the advantage as matters stood Tuesday night, they are looking for a break in his phalanx today, and assert that quite a number of his senators are wavering and may come over to their side before the end.

When questioned about the rumors current that he might withdraw from the race, Judge Allen said:

"No, I shall not withdraw. The battle will be fought out on the floor of the senate, and it will take the count of the vote to decide between myself and Mr. Anderson. We have not given up the fight, though our opponents seem to think so."

Anti-Saloon League Letter.

A bomb was thrown into the camps of both contestants early in the afternoon by a letter from the Rev. H. M. DuBose, secretary of the executive committee of the Anti-Saloon league, addressed to both candidates, asking how they would vote on a bill to make the provisions of the Webb act, enacted by congress last year, effective in Georgia. The Webb act, it will be remembered, gives the prohibition states the power to prohibit the shipment of intoxicating drinks into their borders.

The letter of Mr. DuBose and the answers received from both Mr. Allen and Mr. Anderson follow:

"Dear Sir—The temperance people of Georgia are greatly interested in the passage of a bill to prohibit common carriers from shipping into and delivering for use in this state, thus enabling us to profit by the passage of the Webb bill. Will you, if elected president of the senate, support such a measure and assist in every legitimate way to secure its enactment? Respectfully,

(Signed) "H. M. DUBOSE,
"Chairman Headquarters Committee of the Georgia Anti-Saloon League."

John T. Allen's reply:

"Atlanta, Ga., June 24, 1913.

"Dr. H. M. DuBose, Chairman Headquarters Committee of the Georgia Anti-Saloon League, Atlanta, Ga.—My Dear Sir: I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your letter of June 24, 1913.

"In reply I beg to say that the legislation referred to therein meets my approval, and would receive my support. Respectfully,

(Signed) "JOHN T. ALLEN."

Randolph Anderson made this answer:

"Atlanta, Ga., June 24.—Rev. H.

REPORTED HOKE SMITH MAY AID LEO FRANK

Rumor He Will Appear for Defense Emphatically Denied, However, by Senator.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, June 24.—Reports that Senator Hoke Smith will be associated with Luther Rosser and other lawyers for the defense in the trial of Leo M. Frank for the murder of Mary Phagan were current here today.

These reports followed the visit to Washington on last Saturday of Luther Rosser, leading counsel for Frank and Ike Haas, president of the National Pencil company, which employed Frank as superintendent of the factory.

Investigate Early Life.

Mr. Rosser and Mr. Haas were on their way to Brooklyn to consult with the parents of Frank and endeavor to learn everything possible of his early life and associates. They called at the capitol to see Senator Hoke Smith, and according to reports later, went to his house and induced him to go to New York with them to talk over the matter further.

It is understood they had great difficulty in inducing Senator Smith even to consider the matter. He stated that his work here would be so engrossing for the next few months he could not think of undertaking any legal employment. It is said a big amount was offered him if he would aid the defense.

When seen today and asked about the matter, Senator Smith made an emphatic denial that he would be associated with Frank's counsel, or even that he had been asked to do so.

Senator Denies Report.

"The report is absolutely unfounded," he said. "I have all I can do here for the next few months with the tariff and currency questions."

"Did you see Mr. Rosser and Mr. Haas when they were here?" he was asked.

"I heard they were in the senate gallery one day last week, and they sent in cards to me, but I missed them."

"Did you accompany them to New York?"

"I did not."

"Will you be connected with the case?"

"No; most certainly not. I am too busy here to undertake any outside work."

BY PUFFING OF DUST DESTRUCTION IS DEALT

Four Men Dead, Four Missing and Sixty Hurt—Explosion Also Destroys Factory.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 24.—Four men are known to be dead, sixty were injured, some fatally, and four are unaccounted for, as the result of an explosion late today in the elevator and grain storage annex of the Husted Milling company. Fire followed the explosion, and destroyed the wooden section of the elevator.

The known dead are:

MICHAEL KING, 41 years old.
HENRY VETTER, 45 years old.
JOHN CONNELLY, Husted engineer, and an unidentified man.

Firemen in searching the ruins of the elevator tonight discovered the body of a man. It was burned so that identification is not considered probable. The finding of this body led to the belief that several others failed to escape, and that their bodies are still in the debris.

Sixty were taken to hospitals, some in a serious condition, from burns and broken legs and arms. That many of the injured cannot survive and that the ultimate death list may number fifteen is an estimate reached by a canvass of the hospitals.

The explosion was caused by the puffing of dust accumulated in the feedhouse, and was of frightful force, tearing out one wall of the wooden structure and breaking windows for a quarter of a mile in all directions. John Conroy, engineer of a switch engine, was blown from his cab and received internal injuries, which caused his death.

The body of Henry Vetter was blown 50 feet and was found under a box car nearly badly burned. A boy, while running to his home, was run down by an automobile and killed.

The elevator company employed 150 men and, according to Vice President Husted, of the company, four are not accounted for. Employees who escaped declared, however, that many of their fellow workmen were cut off by the flames and perished.

A dozen box cars loaded with grain were destroyed. The elevator had a capacity of 500,000 bushels. Half was of old wooden construction and, with its contents, was destroyed. Officials of the company estimated their loss at $500,000, covered by insurance.

POLICEMAN, AGED 75, WILL LEAD TO ALTAR BLUSHING BRIDE OF 35

Macon, Ga., June 24.—(Special.)—"I'm going to Forsyth tomorrow to cut a little caper," said C. M. Avant, a 75-year-old member of the Macon police force, today when he asked his lieutenant, John Davis, for a leave of absence.

What are you going to do?" asked Davis.

"Well, I'm going to get married," said the veteran policeman.

Lieutenant Davis almost fainted from the shock, but soon recovered sufficiently to congratulate Avant and wish him well.

Avant will be married tomorrow to Miss Lizzie Gibson, a member of one of the best known families of Monroe county. She is 35. Avant has several grown children and a number of grandchildren.

SLATON'S MESSAGE WILL BE ORAL ONE

He Will Follow the Precedent Set by President Wilson in Making His Recommendations to General Assembly.

Governor-elect John M. Slaton will deliver no written message at the opening of the general assembly this year to be read in the two houses in his absence. His inaugural address, which will be delivered by himself when he is inaugurated on Saturday to both branches of the legislature in joint session, will constitute his message.

In this speech, which is said to be a very able public document by those who have seen it, though not a long one as messages generally go, there will be included all or nearly all of the recommendations that the incoming governor will have to make this year.

Simple Ceremonies.

The usual simple ceremonies that have obtained in the past in the inauguration of Georgia's governors will be followed this year, if the wishes of Governor-elect Slaton are heeded in the matter, and they probably will be.

The new governor will meet the old governor in the reception room of the executive office, and, when notified by a committee of the two houses that their bodies are in joint session and that all is in readiness, they will proceed together to the hall of the house of representatives.

There the oath of office will be administered to Mr. Slaton by Chief Justice Fish, of the supreme court, and Governor Brown will make a formal delivery of the great seal of the state to his successor. Then will follow the inaugural address.

By including in his inaugural address the recommendations as to legislation which he purposes to make, Governor Slaton is in a measure following the example set by President Wilson, who believes that oral messages, delivered to the houses in person, are of far more effect than written deliverances to an almost empty house.

After the inauguration ceremony, Governor Slaton and Mrs. Slaton will accept an invitation to take dinner at the mansion with Governor Brown and Mrs. Brown. Here formal delivery of the mansion will be made to the new governor by his predecessor.

Will Occupy Mansion.

Governor Slaton expects to occupy the mansion as his residence during his term of office, although, as everyone knows, he already has a splendid home here in Atlanta. Just when he will move in will, of course, be determined by the convenience of Governor and Mrs. Brown. The latter will retire to his home in Marietta and expects to spend the greater part of the summer on his farm in Cherokee county.

The above outline of the inaugural proceedings is the one that will, in all probability, be followed. Of course, the program will not be definitely arranged until the two houses are organized and a joint committee on inaugural arrangements elected. The joint committee will have entire charge of the details of the inauguration ceremonies.

MRS. ARMOR PREDICTS SALOONLESS NATION

1920 Is Outside Limit for Liquor Traffic, Declares Temperance Leader.

"The very fact that state-wide prohibition does not prohibit will give us national prohibition," said Mrs. Mary Harris Armor at the First Methodist church last night in an address on a saloonless nation in 1920.

"We have set the time, and 1920 is the outside limit we give the liquor traffic, and by 'we' I mean all the national anti-liquor movements, including the Anti-Saloon league, the Women's Christian Temperance union and the National Christian Endeavor society.

"Public sentiment is strong for prohibition, and with the addition of Arkansas ten states are now in the dry column. Ten years ago Roosevelt would not have dared if necessary to sue for libel on the charge of drunkenness, but there has been a great change in public sentiment, and the colonel has read the signs of the times, as has William Jennings Bryan, who has stirred two continents with his dry banquets."

Mrs. Armor reached the climax of her speech when she pictured the fear of the liquor forces. Reading from an open letter to the trade from the national president of the liquor forces, she quoted the wet chief as follows:

"A veritable sword of Damocles is suspended above our heads. It is naked and is suspended by a single hair. We are threatened not only with the confiscation of our property, but with the total annihilation of our business."

BRANTLEY WILL REPRESENT ROADS

Former Congressman Given Big Position by Railways Before Interstate Commerce Commission.

News of the appointment of Congressman William G. Brantley to represent the railroads of the United States before the interstate commerce commission was received in Atlanta yesterday, and a cordial reception was extended him by friends who crowded the Fledmont lobby, awaiting his arrival from Washington last night.

The first tasks which Congressman Brantley will tackle as a consequence of his appointment will be those of advisory counsel for the railroads of the southeast, representing them in the matter of a physical valuation of their property which the government is now making before the interstate commerce commission.

Associated with Mr. Brantley will be two other representatives, one for the eastern states, the other for the western states, according to a special dispatch received Tuesday night, which is authority for the statement that the western representative has a 5-year contract at a salary reported as being between $25,000 and $40,000, and it is understood that a similar arrangement has been made with the other representatives.

Offices in Washington.

To facilitate the handling of this added work the Atlanta law firm of Brantley, Jones & Brantley will open offices in Washington, with the congressman in charge there, though he will divide his time between Atlanta and the capital. For the present, until the new work has been definitely outlined, he will spend most of his time in Washington.

The group of railroads which Mr. Brantley will represent includes 100 of the strongest lines south of the Mason and Dixon line, and the interstate commerce commission has estimated that they will pass upon fifteen billion dollars' worth of railroad property, and the valuation at which they will finally arrive will be the basis for rate making and taxation. This is of tremendous interest to the public as well as to the railroads, and an effort to get at a fair and reasonable valuation of the entire railroad property in the United States is a gigantic task.

There is considerable speculation as to the length of time this work will take, but according to the interstate commerce commission at least five years will be required. Of considerable gratification to the rank and file of the democratic party was the selection of Congressman Brantley as the representative of the railroads in this important work. From 1886 to 1913 he has held public office, being a member of congress from 1896 to 1913.

Choice of Democrats.

In all these years he resided in Brunswick, Ga., representing the elev-

Woodrow Wilson Needs No "Props" According to "Uncle Joe" Cannon

Richmond, Ind., June 24.—President Woodrow Wilson is a "lusty infant" who "doesn't need any props," according to the views propounded here today by Joseph G. Cannon, former speaker of the house of representatives. Mr. Cannon was here attending the "homecoming" of Earlham college.

"Mr. Wilson doesn't need any help," the former speaker said, commenting on the president. "He's the whole thing, president, congress, cabinet and party. He's a healthy, lusty infant and can stand entirely alone. Also he can speak for himself. He doesn't need any props."

This (Wayne) county was the only one in the state where the entire progressive ticket was elected last fall. When told of this, "Uncle Joe" tilted his cigar a few degrees higher and exclaimed: "Wayne county will not be a 'bull moose' in 1916. Why, boys, by that time 90 per cent of the bull moosers will have made affidavit that they never did it.

"I'll bet the county is getting over its affliction right now."

$100,000 LEAD PLANT WILL SOON BE BUILT

United Lead Company Will Erect Big Building Near to Atlanta.

The United Lead company, with headquarters in New York city, has completed arrangements for the erection of a $100,000 plant at the corner of East and Bishop streets, on the Southern road, close to the Spalding foundry and Atlanta Steel works. This corporation, recognized as the controlling factor of the country's lead business, has taken out a Georgia charter, and the local branch will be known as the Georgia Lead works.

The plant will be housed in a steel structure, 200 feet long, and work upon the building is to begin at once, under the direction of H. J. Carr & Co., contractors. A gigantic business is contemplated, and, according to one of the officials of the corporation, arrangements have already been made for a $60,000 a year pay roll.

NO TORN BATTLE FLAGS TO FLY AT GETTYSBURG

Veterans Asked Not to Bring War Banners—Room and Rations for All.

Philadelphia, June 24.—Word has gone out to veterans of both armies all over the country not to bring their tattered battle flags to Gettysburg next week for the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the battle, for they cannot be flown to the breeze in the encampment. Every precaution will be taken to prevent the stirring up of animosities and feeling on the part of the old soldiers, and this is one of the precautions considered necessary. The only flag which will be allowed in the encampment will be the Stars and Stripes.

Boy scouts will be used as couriers and general aides to the veterans at the encampment. They will be stationed at the railroad terminals to aid the veterans in handling their luggage and give information.

Room and Rations for All.

Gettysburg, Pa., June 24.—"There will be ample accommodations and plenty of rations for all veterans who come to Gettysburg for the battle anniversary celebration next week, even though the number exceed by 10,000 the original estimate," was the statement made by officers of the regular army at camp headquarters yesterday.

"Here we have over 5,000 tents, nearly all of which are now in place," said one officer. "Every one is supposed to be large enough to receive eleven men. We have apportioned only eight to each tent. By making it thus you have additional accommodations for 5,000 men and you can increase this by another 5,000 without crowding any one.

"It is true that we based our supplies on an estimate of 40,000 veterans, but the amount is elastic and can be made to serve for many others. For instance, we allow a pound of bread for each man a day. Few men eat this much, or even half this much. Other supplies are based on the same liberal plan, and every veteran who comes here ill get shelter and all the food he needs."

WHITE SLAVE CASE ORDERED TO TRIAL BY THE PRESIDENT

Wilson Accepts McNab's Resignation and Will Employ Heney to Prosecute the Accused Californians.

M'REYNOLDS ACQUITTED BY PRESIDENT WILSON

In View of McNab's Charge That Postponement Was Caused by Improper Influences President Thinks There Should Be an Immediate Trial.

FACTS CAN'T BE CHANGED, DECLARES ATTORNEY M'NAB

San Francisco, Cal., June 24.—"Good; I am glad the president has acted so promptly," said District Attorney John L. McNab, when told tonight that his resignation had been accepted, "the incident is now closed.

"The president," he continued, says my criticism of the attorney general was unjust. But even President Wilson can't change facts. If it was right in May to tell me to proceed with the cases in question, it is wrong in June to tell me to stop, it is wrong now for the president to say proceed."

Washington, June 24.—President Wilson tonight telegraphed United States District Attorney McNab, of San Francisco, acceptance of the latter's resignation, the form of which the president characterized as "couched in the intimation of injustice and wrongdoing" on the part of Attorney General McReynolds.

In a letter to the attorney general, the president exonerated him from blame and adopted Mr. McReynolds' suggestion that the Caminetti-Diggs and the Western Fuel company cases be prosecuted immediately by special counsel for the government.

Heney May Be Chosen.

White house officials announced that the president would confer with the attorney general tomorrow about the appointment of special prosecutors and that the president had in mind Francis J. Heney, progressive republican, who prosecuted the San Francisco graft trials; Matt J. Sullivan, democrat, who assisted Mr. Heney in the Ruef trial, and Thomas Hayden, democrat, a former assistant city attorney in San Francisco. It was said that at least two of these three men and possibly all would be selected to take charge not only of the Caminetti-Diggs white slave cases, but the Western Fuel company cases.

Developments were rapid during the day in the situation which was precipitated by telegrams of Mr. McNab on Saturday to the president and the attorney general, accusing the latter of yielding to "rich and powerful influences" in ordering postponement of these cases, the father of one of the defendants being Anthony Caminetti, commissioner general of immigration. The subject absorbed the cabinet meeting today and tonight the president came to his office to make public the full correspondence. First the president telegraphed Mr. McNab as follows:

"Washington, D. C., June 24, 1913.—John L. McNab, San Francisco, Cal.—I greatly regret that you should have taken so hastily and under so complete misapprehension of the actual circumstances, but since you have chosen such a course and have given your resignation the form of an inexcusable intimation of injustice and wrongdoing on the part of your superior. I release you without hesitation and accept your resignation, to take effect at once.

"WOODROW WILSON."

Wilson to McReynolds.

Attorney General McReynolds' statement that he ordered a postponement of the cases as an ordinary procedure in criminal trials without anticipating that "any fair-minded man" would attribute "a malign motive" to him was acknowledged by the president in his letter:

"Washington, D. C., June 24, 1913.—My Dear Mr. Attorney General: Allow me to acknowledge with sincere appreciation your letter of today, giving me a full account of the way in which the department of justice has dealt with the Diggs-Caminetti and the Western Fuel cases, pending in California, and transmitting the documents connected with the two cases necessary for their elucidation.

"I am entirely satisfied that the course you took in both the cases was prompted by sound and immartial judgment and a clear insistence for what was fair and right.

"I approve your course very heartily and without hesitation. But I agree with you that what we may think of what has been done does not relieve us of the obligation to press these cases with the utmost diligence and energy.

"I approve very heartily of your suggestion that, in the absence of any special counsel he employed, the best that we can obtain.

"I will be very glad to confer with you about the selection. I hope that you will do this without delay. I am very glad indeed that you are giving your personal attention to the immediate and diligent prosecution of the cases which I agree with you in regarding as of serious importance from every point of view.

"Sincerely yours,

"WOODROW WILSON."

Besides the attorney general's letter to the president, the white house gave out a letter written to Mr. McReynolds today by Secretary Wilson, of the department of labor, in which the latter declared that Anthony Caminetti asked for a leave of absence to attend the trial of his son before he took the oath of office as commissioner general of immigration. Secretary Wilson stated that neither Mr. Caminetti nor any one else suggested that he ask for the postponements of the cases. In this letter that he did it of his own volition so as to keep Mr. Caminetti in Washington for the work of organizing the immigration bureau.

McReynolds to Wilson.

In his letter to the president, Attorney General McReynolds recited the history of the two cases and submitted the files in each case.

Responding to instructions from the attorney general for a detailed report of the Diggs and Caminetti cases and to take no affirmative action pending further advised by the department of justice, the attorney general said United States Attorney McNab sent in a report received on May 27. In this report, he added, McNab "details a version of the acts with his inferences therefrom and expresses the opinion that the case was aggravated and should be vigorously prosecuted; also that there might be attempts to interfere with the due course of justice be improper influences."

On the day the report was received the attorney general telegraphed McNab as follows:

"I think the proper course is for you to set the case down and proceed with them as you have planned, and you are so directed."

Continuing, the attorney general said:

"I had no occasion to give the matter any further special consideration for some three weeks—June 18—when Secretary Wilson telephoned to me and told me of the embarrassment in which he was placed by the request from the elder Caminetti, father of one of the defendants, for leave of absence in order to attend the trial of his son; the elder Caminetti, as you know, is the newly appointed commissioner of immigration. The secretary explained the exigencies of his department which he thought imperatively required the presence here of the commissioner. He has submitted a letter stating his recollection of the circumstances and I herewith inclose it.

"Impressed by Secretary Wilson's statement of his embarrassment and desiring, of course, if possible, to relieve him without straining to go through the files and so refresh my recollection concerning any particular circumstances of the case, I sent the United States attorney the following telegram:

Why Caminetti Case Was Postponed.

"The secretary of labor advises it is a matter of public importance that Commissioner of Immigration Caminetti remain at his post here. I do not wish the government to be in the position of insisting upon trial of young Caminetti and Diggs-Caminetti with relation to white slave law, during enforced absence of his father, who is performing necessary public duties. In view of all the facts you are ordered to postpone trial of the cases until the autumn.'

"The postponement of a criminal case so recently instituted as this was not an unusual proceeding, and it did not occur to me that any malign motive would be attributed to me. If I had anticipated that any fair-minded man, knowing—the facts, would place such a construction upon this ordinary act, I would have been scrupulously careful to avoid it. It is essential not only that the administration of justice shall be free from partiality or improper influence, but that even the appearance of such things should be avoided. I do not even hope to escape mistakes, but I am profoundly conscious that my actions are free from unworthy motives.

"Mr. McNab, as United States attorney, held a position of peculiar trust and confidence, demanding the utmost loyalty to the department. If, as such an officer should do, he had availed himself of the opportunity to send a dispatch calling my attention to the peculiar conditions which he thought required the proposed action indivisable, as I had always theretofore done, I should have given earnest consideration to his suggestions, and with them before me, would have acted with the local conditions fresh in my mind. Instead of pursuing thus manifestly proper course, he waited until June 20, and then published the sensational telegrame wherein he imputed base motives to me. His conduct has, of course, made it impossible for him to continue in the prosecution of this case, however desirable that otherwise might have been. Under the circumstances the only course open is to accept his resignation.

"I therefore suggest an immediate conference between us for the purpose of selecting some counsel whose ability, character and reputation are so high as to insure the prosecution of the cas and that he be put in immediate charge, with instructions promptly and vigorously to prosecute it to a conclusion.

The Smith and Bruce Cases.

The attorney general also explained in detail the course of the department in relation to ordering the postponement of the trials of Sidney V. Smith and Robert Bruce, two of the land officials of the Western Fuel company indicted for alleged coal drawback funds. He said the first time he gave personal consideration to this case was on June 30, when he received a letter from Secretary Lane in which he enclosed one from Sidney V. Smith, defendant, without recommendation."

"Mr. Smith's letter sought to show that the things complained of were done by others," said Mr. McReynolds, "that although he was a director he was not a participant in any criminal act, and that the case be dismissed as to him.

"I sent a copy of the Smith letter to District Attorney McNab with a request for his views. On May 20 he replied giving a review of the evidence and expressing the view that all five of the defendants should be prosecuted. Thereafter, I advised the district attorney of my concurrence in this conclusion and directed him to proceed.

"Thereafter, as I recall, Mr. Pringle, a San Francisco attorney, presented either Smith or Bruce, or both, came to see me. I turned him over to assistant attorney General Harr, with instructions to give the matter particular and careful attention. After considering all the facts Mr. Harr finally reported that in the just solution of the situation was first to prosecute the three, who were both directors and officers of the company, and that the case against the other two should be deferred until he could examine the evidence presented and determine the propriety of their prosecution. He reported this conclusion to me; I thought it right, and in pursuance of our understanding directed district attorney the following telegram:

"Upon further consideration of matter, department feels grave doubts as to guilt of Smith, Smith and Robert Bruce, indicted in Western Fuel company case. In order to avoid possible injustice you are instructed to continue case as to other defendants after the trial of the other three directors who were officers of the company and active in its management. If latter are convicted, copy of the proceedings of the trial should be sent department in order that it may determine what course should be pursued in regard to the two directors named. Wire receipt.'

Believe Course Proper.

"The receipt of this is one of the reasons alleged by Mr. McNab for giving out the dispatches, described above, and for imputing base motives to me.

"I am still of opinion that the course recommended by Mr. Harr in respect of this case is the proper one to pursue. But, in view of the insinuations spread broadcast by the district attorney and for the same reason as those stated for similar action in the Diggs-Caminetti case, special counsel should be selected to prosecute the case under like instructions as those suggested there, and I think we should have an immediate conference for this purpose."

The attorney general explained that he desired to lay the facts in both cases before the president because of the "somewhat heated and sensational dispatches given to the press by United States Attorney McNab" and "the wide-spread misapprehension which would naturally result therefrom."

Secretary Wilson's letter to the attorney general, dated today, presented a record of the connection of Mr. Caminetti, commissioner general of immigration and father of Drew Caminetti, indicted on a white slave charge, with the postponement of the cases. The secretary wrote:

"In view of the published statements that influence has been brought to bear upon you through the secretary of labor to postpone the trial in the Diggs-Caminetti case, I desire to state to you that Commissioner General Caminetti or any one else either requested or suggested to me that I should ask you to postpone the trial.

"Mr. Caminetti took the oath of office he informed me that it would be necessary to ask for leave of absence in order to be present at the trial of his son. About the middle of June he again called my attention to his desire for leave of absence. I pointed out to him the necessity for his not to contend with; that the department was in a formative stage; . . . that the administration of the immigration laws generally would require his close application and that in view of these conditions it was imperative that he should remain at his post during this period. That, then, when he went to the Pacific coast he would be in a position to inspect the various immigration stations in a manner which would give beneficial results.

Postponement Was Urged.

"I then asked him if it would not be possible for him to secure a postponement of his son's trial until the next term of court, so he could attend the trial of his son and on the same trip inspect the immigration service on the Pacific coast. He replied that he did not think it considerable

CONFLICTING TALES TOLD BY SUSPECTED NEGRO

Statements Made by Black Held for Killing of Hewell and Wife Prove False.

Dublin, Ga., June 24.—(Special.)—All of the statements of Jim Lewis, one of the fourteen negroes held for the murder of T. J. Hewell and his wife, as to his whereabouts on the night of the murder have been proven false by officers investigating the case. The black has told several conflicting tales.

When arrested at Scott, a few small bloodstains were plainly visible on his overalls, but on being taken out of the calaboose to be brought to this city the stains were just barely discernable, as Lewis had evidently been rubbing them so as to obliterate them as much as possible.

Investigation is still going on, and other arrests may follow.

Although officers have refused to make known the names of the other suspects, it has been learned that three arrested near Long Branch were Sam Irwin, Tom Green and one known as "Little Joe."

Jim Kellam, one of the negroes arrested Sunday, is still in custody, but the other two have been released, as the evidence against them was not strong enough to warrant their being held.

The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Hewell have been sent to Griffin for interment.

The coroner's jury held another star chamber session last night, examining six witnesses. Another session will be held tomorrow night.

DIES OF HEART FAILURE WHILE TAKING SWIM

Augusta, Ga., June 24.—(Special.)—While in bathing at Lankey's pond, near this city, Frank Hughes died suddenly of heart failure yesterday afternoon. Dr. C. J. Montgomery, coroner's physician, examined the body and questioned a number of witnesses, but no inquest was held.

Thinking his death was the result of drowning, a number of men worked over him for more than two hours, but ineffectually. Hughes had complained of pains in the region of his heart during the afternoon, and it is said he had been revived twice recently from drowning when attacked by a fainting spell while in swimming.

HE REFUSED TO EAT AND WAS RELEASED

London, June 24.—Edwy Clayton, the chemist sentenced to twenty-one months' imprisonment on June 17 for conspiracy in conjunction with the militant suffragette leaders, was released from jail today in a very weak condition as the result of a "hunger strike."

It appears from statements made by released prisoners that many convicts who are not suffragists have followed the example of the suffragettes. Three men in one of the prisons have for some weeks declined to eat and are being forcibly fed.

FOR KILLING HER LOVER WOMAN GETS FIVE DAYS

Mrs. Dotson, Wife of Tennessee Physician, Tells of Relations With Cobb.

Nashville, Tenn., June 24.—Guilty of involuntary manslaughter with punishment fixed at five days in jail was the verdict rendered against Mrs. Anna Dotson, aged 33, wife of Dr. Walter Dotson, a Gallatin, Tenn., physician, rendered in the criminal court here today. She was charged with the murder of Charles Cobb, 21 and married, a barber, whom she shot down at his chair in a shop here March 15.

On the stand Mrs. Dotson stated that she had had illicit relations with Cobb, who formerly lived in Gallatin. Of these relations she finally told her husband and a minister. She told of a vow she had made to God that if He would not separate her from her husband and would forgive her, she would kill the man who wrecked her life and ruined her husband's happiness. The defense also offered testimony to sustain the insanity theory.

'08 HIGH SCHOOL CLASS WILL BANQUET FRIDAY

The Boys' High school class of 1908 will hold its annual banquet Friday night at the Cafe Durand. Members of the class who have been separated since the night of their graduation exercises for the meeting at the annual reunion and banquet, plan to renew their old friendships, and a good time is promised to all the men present.

The details of the affair are in charge of Willis Milner, H. G. Bedingfield, William Candler, George Osborne and Paul Carpenter.

CREMATORY DISPUTE WILL SOON BE ENDED

Mayor Woodward Declares He Will Make No Further Objection to Price.

The dispute over the new contract under which the city will purchase the crematory for $260,000 will be settled within the next three or four days, according to statements made by Mayor James G. Woodward and W. E. Dowd, Jr., sales manager of the Destructor company, Tuesday afternoon.

Mayor Woodward stated positively that he will raise no further objection to the price, although he still adheres to the belief that the city is paying at least $18,000 too much under the new agreement. He says that the settlement of the dispute depends entirely upon the wording of the contract.

"I am willing to agree to any contract that does not change the design of the plant which has been built in strict accordance with the specifications," Manager Dowd said. "As for giving the city a bond under the new contract, it has never been the intention of the company to evade that function. We paid out a little more than $1,800 on the old bond, and will give a new bond to insure the city in the event the guarantees are not fulfilled."

"The city should have paid us $125,000 on June 22," he says, "but instead we are being held back because of technicalities in the contract. We have done everything possible to hasten the work, and have agreed to make the same guarantees as we made under the old contract. We are losing 7 per cent interest on $125,000, which amounts to $26 a day for every day the money is being held back."

Manager Dowd says that in so far as Mayor Woodward's demand that the company state specifically in the contract the date for completing the plant is concerned, the company will guarantee that the plant will be finished on August 20 and will be burning garbage.

Manager Dowd does not charge that Mayor Woodward is treating his company unfairly. He said Tuesday that the unfair treatment was coming from men who have professed to be friendly to the project.

DISPOSITION OF W. & A. CONSIDERED BY CHAMBER

The committee of the chamber of commerce on considering the disposition of the Western and Atlantic railroad at the end of its lease in 1919 met Tuesday afternoon in the Atlanta chamber and after thoroughly discussing the matter decided to await further developments and make more inquiries before taking any definite stand on the question.

A call meeting will be held some time in the earlier part of August, at which representatives from each county will be present, it is thought, when the desire of the citizens will be heard.

There are four methods by which the state may dispose of this question —sell the property, lease it for a short or long term, run it by the state or extend it to the sea.

W. A. Wimbish is chairman of the committee of the Atlanta chamber which is working on the problem.

MORE THUNDERSHOWERS DUE IN ATLANTA TODAY

"More thunder showers ahead," says the weather man.

Otherwise he predicts nothing more nor less than the same hot and sultry weather of the past week or so. The highest temperature registered on Tuesday was 89 degrees which lasted from 1 o'clock until 3 o'clock. About the same temperature is due today, unless the predicted thunder showers should appear and cool off the atmosphere.

The weather has been continuously at a high mark for many days past and the lowest it reached in the past twenty-four hours was 70 degrees. At 7 o'clock Tuesday morning the thermometer registered 72 degrees and the mercury gradually rose until it reached its maximum of 89 degrees at 1 o'clock.

DR. HOLLEY TO WED HIS OLD SWEETHEART

Yonkers, N. Y., June 24.—Rev. Dr. Byron Holley, rector of St. George's Episcopal church, New Orleans, has won the girl he wooed and lost through a misunderstanding forty years ago. At the commencement exercises of public school number 12, just concluded, the engagement of its principal, Mrs. Elizabeth Sanborn Knapp, to Rev. Dr. Holley was announced.

Mrs. Knapp, a widow and now a grandmother, is retiring on a pension after more than a quarter of a century at work in the school room.

She and Mr. Holley were sweethearts in Rochester, N. Y., two score years ago, when a misunderstanding interrupted their plans to wed.

The marriage will be celebrated soon at the cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York.

REFORMS DEMANDED IN HANDLING COTTON

Subject Is Taken Up By House Committee on Interstate Commerce.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, June 24.—(Special.)—Legislation looking to better methods of bailing and packing cotton for shipment in interstate commerce, to prohibit wasteful methods of sampling, and unfair deductions for cotton tare, as well as regulations for deductions for "country damage," was taken up today by the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce.

Representative Adamson, of Georgia, chairman of the committee, declares that congress undoubtedly has power to regulate this subject where the cotton is to be shipped outside of the state. Innumerable complaints have been made by farmers that the arbitrary 6 per cent tare deduction is unjust. This is denied by the cotton merchants and exporters, who say that thirty pounds of bagging and ties is the average.

To settle the long continued controversy between the producer and the buyer several bills have been introduced to regulate the trade customs by law. Hearings on these bills began today before the house committee.

Colonel T. H. Kimbrough, of Natalia, Ga., who represents Harris county in the state legislature, appeared and made a most interesting statement. He told of Georgia's memorial to congress to pass such legislation. Colonel Kimbrough condemned the arbitrary 6 per cent deduction for tare, and favored a law to require the actual tare to be marked on each bale of cotton at the gin. False marking to be made punishable, as would the deduction of more than the actual amount of tare indicated.

Reference was made to the practice of the Southeastern railroad in accepting for shipment unginned cotton and ginning and baling it en route. Even if the railroads can only carry 25,000 pounds of unginned cotton in a car, whereas they can carry six 5,000-pound bales in the same car, they are enabled to make a difference in the transportation receipts through controlling the gins at certain points.

A bill to require uniform tare was introduced at the last session of congress by Representative Burleson, of Texas, now postmaster general. A similar measure introduced by Representative Heflin, of Alabama, is now pending in the house. It makes false marking punishable by a fine of $100 and imprisonment for one year and prohibits a greater deduction for tare "either from the gross weight of any bale of cotton or through the price paid for same."

It is expected that a number of representatives of cotton growers, exporters and transportation companies will appear before the Adamson committee within the next two weeks on this problem.

WHIGHAM MAYOR TELLS OF VISIT TO ATLANTA

It is always interesting to know what our neighbors and visitors in our city think of us. Here is what R. H. Pettigrew, mayor of the town of Whigham, down in Grady county, says he saw on a recent trip to Atlanta in a letter printed in his home paper. The Grady Progress:

"Editor Progress: As our lawmakers will soon convene to make laws, and as the representatives of our capital city propose to revise our penal code, why not we smaller fish suggest to Fulton's lawmakers to first pull the mote out of Atlanta's eye.

"I was in Atlanta on June 6 and called on Chief Rogers to see Decatur and Peters streets. Immediately he placed me in the care of Detective Carter and Pitman, two of his most trusted arms, and on to the sights we went. The first location was a negro billiard room, ten tables, seventy-five idlers scrapping for places. My first wish was that I was recorder of Atlanta and authority to round up all try vagrants, and Carter and Pitman to turn the bucks up.

"Now the great need of reform is to delegate the municipalities, towns and cities the authority to try and punish vagrants. This sort of reform would be felt by every farm and mill in Georgia, and the expense of our state courts would be lessened. And this devil worked on chain-gang and crime making would stop. Put the right line on and let us feel it. Give municipal courts the extra try vagrants and the fair will be made."

H. R. PETTIGREW,
Mayor of Whigham.

Dr. F. C. Folks Hurt.

Waycross, Ga., June 24.—(Special.)—While he fell through his bank porch today, Dr. Frank C. Folks, a prominent physician and former mayor of Waycross, was seriously injured.

The porch was being repaired and he stepped into it not knowing the flooring was unsafe.

SHE THREATENS TO CUT THROAT OF THE BRIDE

Sensational Charge Is Made Against Daughter of Tichborne Claimant.

London, June 24.—A sensational charge was made today at Bow street police court against a daughter of Arthur Orton, the claimant to the estates of the Tichborne family about whose identity the world was divided into two camps for many years. The woman was accused of threatening to murder Miss Dennie Greville, who is to marry Sir Joseph Doughty-Tichborne, the young baronet at Brompton oratory tomorrow.

The threat was contained in a letter to the bridegroom, also married in 1909 Beatrice Mills, daughter of Ogden Mills, of New York.

Sir George Lewis, speaking for the prosecution, declared that the accused had intended to carry out her threat of murder during the ceremony at Brompton oratory tomorrow.

The accused, who called herself Theres Doughty-Tichborne, protested in court that she intended no harm to the bride, and only wanted to bring her case to the attention of the public. The letter to the Earl of Grand referred to the approaching marriage of her cousin, Joseph Tichborne. It said:

"I hardly need to ask you to use your influence to make them give me some of the money they have stolen from us. You do nothing. It is nothing to you that I starve as long as you and your wife can give parties and flaunt about with people who, if they knew the truth, would be ashamed to know you. You cannot hide any more, for I am making you an accessory before the fact by telling you that I am going to shoot that girl rather than Joseph shall marry her and they shall live on my money.

"As there is a God in heaven, I am going to do it."

The woman was sent to jail to await further action.

Arthur Orton, in 1869, claimed to be Roger Tichborne, and demanded the title and estate of the twelfth baronet. He came from Australia, and the family, believing that the young Roger Tichborne had been lost at sea, refused to acknowledge him. The celebrated trial ensued in 1872. Orton was non-suited, and was sent to jail for fourteen years for perjury. He died after serving his term in 1898, but before that aumitted his identity as a butcher from the east end of London.

GIRL'S DEATH CAUSED BY ILLEGAL OPERATION

Salisbury, Md., June 24.—Despite the efforts being made by the authorities to keep secret the developments in the investigation into the death of Miss Florence Wainwright, the young woman bookkeeper found dead in the office of the Home Gas company Friday night, it is now known that the young woman did not die of poison as at first believed, but from a criminal operation performed, it is thought, Friday afternoon in the yard back of the gas company office.

That the young woman did not die sitting at her desk, as was made to appear, now seems certain. It is probability she was carried into the office and placed at the desk in the position in which she was found. It is thought by the authorities persons were present with the young woman when she died.

Harold Smith, the manager of the gas company, testified before the coroner's jury, it is said, that he was in the office all the afternoon, leaving there at 4:15, and that the young woman had been complaining of feeling ill. Smith says he left the young woman alone in the office and went home.

Mrs. Elmer Smith, wife of a former employee and a friend of Miss Wainwright, testified that she said this girl was with the young woman from 4 until 5:45 o'clock, leaving her at the office with Harold Smith who testified it is said, that Miss Wainwright was quite ill all the while she was with her. Miss Wingate, the stenographer employed by the gas company, says she left the office at 5:30 o'clock. No arrests have been made, but rumors persist that there will be.

SUICIDE BY POISON POPULAR IN CHICAGO

Chicago, June 24.—Aroused by unusually frequent homicides and accidental deaths by poisons, three aldermen last night introduced orders requiring the health committee to draft an ordinance prohibiting the promiscuous sale of deadly drugs. All were passed.

"These poisons may be purchased as easily as soda drugs," asserted Alderman Schaffer. "Lizzie Silverman gave up her life Sunday, a victim of poison taken accidentally for which no antidote is known and which may be bought by anyone. This body is in a way responsible for her death because of its lax awareness and providing an ordinance preventing the sale of poisons without a prescription."

PLANS TO ORGANIZE STATE TRADE BOARD

Active Work for Georgia State Chamber of Commerce Begun Tuesday Afternoon.

Active work in organizing the Georgia state chamber of commerce was entered into Tuesday afternoon when some of Georgia's most promiment citizens, composing the committee, met in the Atlanta chamber and issued a call for citizens from all parts of Georgia to meet in Atlanta July 23 and put the state chamber actively on foot.

This state chamber will be organized for the specific purpose of encouraging better health conditions, development of state schools, better roads, diversity of crops, promotion of the live stock and dairy industry, to create a fund to keep the name of Georgia in the large northern and northwestern periodicals and numerous other objects for the betterment of the state.

County chambers of commerce, working in co-operation with the bankers, merchants and farmers, will be organized over the state to work in harmony with the state organization. The field agents of the State College of Agriculture led by Phil J. Campbell, will aid in this work.

The Retail Merchants' association of Georgia will co-operate with the movement through its numerous local organizations over the state to improve farming and marketing conditions.

Letters from all parts of the state have been received by Charles J. Haden, chairman of the committee, advocating the movement and offering co-operation. Some of the most prominent citizens of south Georgia have enlisted that portion of the state in the movement, and its success is practically assured.

Among the prominent Georgians who are behind this movement for better country life conditions are George M. McKenzie, capitalist and fertilizer manufacturer.

Scientists, world famous, had rendered opinions that beer exposed to light cannot remain pure.

One year ago, Schlitz corroborated its claims by reprinting such parts of these opinions as were pertinent.

Today, the last link in this long chain of incontrovertible evidence is complete.

We reproduce herewith in miniature the printed matter on covers or caution cards taken from cases of beer sold by brewers using the light bottle.

A STATE DEMANDS ACTION.

The paramount duty of the legislature that assembles today is the reformation from top to bottom of the scandalous fiscal system of the state of Georgia. That is to be done primarily by making every man, every county, every interest pay their fair share of taxation. It is a notorious fact that under our mossback system of taxation a great many of them have not been doing so for years. The issue has recurred and been evaded from year to year. The time has come for action. If the state's credit and honor are to be preserved intact, and if the state's functions are to be nourished and not paralyzed, an immediate way must be found out of this long-standing embarrassment. No legislator who regards seriously his oath of office will care to go home without making his earnest contribution to the solution of the problem.

What is the situation? Georgia has, year after year, been spending more than she received. To cover these annual deficits, the state government has been compelled, year after year, to "kite" and borrow emergency money in a fashion that would disgrace the high financiers of Wall street. Even with these disreputable makeshifts every branch of the state's educational system and each of its eleemosynary institutions have been penalized.

One feature alone—that of the indefensible delay in paying the school teachers of Georgia—is enough to indict the system. These men and women are equipping the Georgians who shall rule tomorrow. At best their pay is meager and insufficient. Yet under the patchwork method for so many years in operation these teachers must wait months and months after their salaries are earned before receiving them. It is now nearing the end of the first half of the year 1913. Not a penny has been paid out on the 1913 accounts due these hard-worked and underpaid men and women. The consequence is they are driven, by the exigencies of bread and meat, to shylock their small salaries where the counties do not themselves borrow the money and take the interest charges out of the first allotment paid them by the state. If Georgia were a poor state or a state without resources, these oppressive and archaic measures might be tolerated in the name of education. Georgia is not poor, and her resources set her singularly above most states in the union from the standpoint of revenue-raising power.

With regard to the branches of the state university, the university itself, the district agricultural colleges and the eleemosynary institutions, the conditions are relatively as bad. The university at Athens has a smaller maintenance and expansion fund than that of the university of any other state of the union of similar standing. It is cramped in every direction. The same condition applies to the state college of agriculture. It is even aggravated at the Georgia School of Technology which, with smaller resources than any similar institution in the south, has been forced to keep pace with the important task of supplying builders to this commonwealth. The purely eleemosynary institutions of the state are each year compelled to trim and trim their budgets and threaten their usefulness because of an alleged public "poverty" which is simply the result of cowardice.

Here and there the cry has up that this evil is to be met by smaller appropriations. That is the dreariest buncombe. In an admirable analysis of Georgia's financial system, published elsewhere, Walter McElreath, chairman of the house appropriations committee for 1911-12, effectually disposes of this argument. We commend his statement, as that of one speaking with authority, to the incoming legislature. He shows that the great growth of appropriations is simply a register of the great expansion of the state and the assumption on its part of new and vital functions. Beginning with the year, approximately, 1885, he shows that Georgia entered a new era in which it encouraged common schools, acted more fairly by pensioners, dealt more liberally with the university, established branches to it, broadened the facilities of eleemosynary institutions and begun the discharge of other obvious duties. Financing the state in 1880 was a simple matter. Georgia had not then assumed to the same extent its obligations to its citizens. No wonder it was possible to reduce the tax rate. It is different—vastly different—today. For not only must the state find funds for these expanded activities, but it must do so out of decreased sources of revenue. For instance, the abolition of the convict lease system, which was constructive legislation of the highest order, cut what would now be more than half a million dollars a year from the state's income. The repeal of the dog tax took, approximately, $140,000. The prohibition law wiped out hundreds of thousands of revenue annually. No one quarrels with these reforms. But they left a deficit which must be met if every institution that spells progress is not to be sacrificed. Had these old revenue-makers been left undisturbed we would not be faced by the disparity between income and appropriations. Since they are no longer available, new avenues must be found.

If legislatures heed the advice to hold down appropriations they will surely paralyze some one or more of the state's functions. No Georgian would endure a reactionary policy in this regard. It is as sensible for the growing state of Georgia to talk of cutting down appropriations as it would be for a grown man to try to subsist on the food and with the clothes of a child.

As with any individual, as with any business house, it is with Georgia a case of making income adapt itself to needs and not of pruning down needs to make them conform to income. That way lies positive stagnation. Perennially, our ancient tax system, devised for a simple civilization, makes the state appear as a pauper. Georgia is not a pauper state. Take the one potential asset of the state road. That property will not, of course, ever be sold. But it affords an illustration of Georgia's wealth. According to returns made recently to Comptroller General Wright, the road is now making a net return equal to 5 per cent on a capital of $20,000,000. In other words, the $20,000,000 represented in the state road would, were the state's affairs liquidated, clean Georgia's state absolutely clear of indebtedness and leave a margin of from $12,000,000 to $14,000,000.

In taxable assets Georgia is particularly rich. The state compares favorably with any other in the country. Logically, and if taxation were scientific, not only should there be ample funds each year to decently provide for the state's needs, but also to accumulate a surplus. Why is this not done? For the simple reason that taxpayers in Georgia pay what they please and not what they ought. If a man is minded to return his property at the same figure as that of last year, he is free to do so, even though that property may have doubled in value. This system means that counties of equal wealth are making unequal returns; that individuals make the same compromise with their conscience. It means that where two dollars should have been added to taxable values, only one dollar has been added. It means the state has to skirmish to keep its business going, when it should have a great and easy working balance.

THIS THING WILL CONTINUE INDEFINITELY. IT WILL STEADILY GROW WORSE, THE STATE'S INSTITUTIONS WILL BE INCREASINGLY THREATENED, THE STATE'S CREDIT WILL ULTIMATELY BE IMPAIRED UNTIL TAXES ARE EQUALIZED IN GEORGIA. There is no other way out of it. We have played with the problem for years. Now we must master it or it will master us.

The state is alive as never before to the need and the justice of tax equalization. It is demanding that steps be taken. Out of this situation grow many suggestions. Among them is one to the effect that a commission be appointed to "inquire and report." If that suggestion is adopted, the people may as well abandon hope of action from this legislature. The pigeon-holes are full of reports of tax commissions. Commissions are fine—as mortuaries. As far as data and information goes—there is enough already at hand to begin work. In the comptroller's office alone is a wealth of detail that will amaze the man who thinks people are paying taxes as they should in this state.

Let this legislature get busy! We commend to them, in this connection, the plan of Mr. McElreath to catch up with the perennial teachers' deficit. He would offer, as did Mr. Ashley, of Lowndes, a constitutional amendment for a slight increase in the tax rate, for a year or two only, to be used for this purpose. His other suggestions for science instead of confusion in administering the school and pension funds is excellent. His suggestion for an inheritance tax is one primarily advocated for Georgia by The Constitution.

There are plans in abundance. There is information to spare. What is needed is *action. The Constitution proposes to ham*mer this issue from this time forward, without fear and without favor, until the present general assembly takes action. The rich state of Georgia has long enough been cramped in its growth. It has long enough been libelled as a pauper. It has long enough tolerated the spectacle of tax-dodgers letting others bear their burdens. It has long enough been saddled with a system that threatens disastrous financial complications. The day is gone for cowardice and timidity. Georgia expects that every legislator shall disregard political expediency or personal pressure and do his duty by the whole state. No legislature since reconstruction has so great an opportunity as has this one for splendid, non partisan statesmanship.

"IMMEDIATE" MEANS—NOW!

Two weeks ago the entire community hailed with relief the announcement that the Fulton county commissioners would "immediately" repair Peachtree street between Fifteenth street and Buckhead, with the assurance that next year the work of permanent repaving would be undertaken. Already a third of the summer is passed. If the repair work thus promised is to be of any avail at all it should be undertaken at once and pushed to completion. Delay means that by the time it is completed summer will be over and the most imperative need of a safe thoroughfare left behind.

We are well enough acquainted with the ability and intentions of the commissioners to know they meant what they said when they agreed to repair the road "immediately." But we are just a trifle afraid they are in danger of taking issue with the dictionary-makers on the definition of that word. "Immediate" means—NOW! And if the evils which caused the whole county to clamor originally for quick action are to be remedied, that is the definition that must be observed.

It is not as though the repairing of this dangerous stretch affected just Peachtree. That avenue is more used than any other in Fulton county. South siders use it almost as much as north siders. From all portions of the county and of counties beyond, the strain on it is steady and terrific. From all the collateral streets the tax is heavy. No one denies the disreputable condition of the street. From Fifteenth to Buckhead it is really unsafe to traffic. It is criss-crossed by newly-laid pipes and sewers, and gullied by frequent repavings until the toll it takes from vehicles of every nature is almost inestimable.

A few men and a little material and a week or ten days' work will put the stretch in such shape that it will be at least passable for the remainder of the year. But unless action is taken quickly it will be too late to be of service this summer. We therefore sincerely hope that the county commissioners will permit nothing to interfere with the immediate redemption of their promise. But where a street affecting so vitally every part of the county is concerned, every day's delay brings definite penalty.

That Kansas $40,000,000 wheat crop gives all the college graduates a chance to earn a living.

No doubt the millionaire has his troubles, but consider how easy it is for him to raise the price on the product.

It's up to our foreign ambassadors to prove that American literature is not a myth.

No matter how many bills the legislature gives us we'll be as poor as ever still.

CAUSE OF AND CURE FOR GEORGIA'S FISCAL TROUBLES

(Walter McElreath, of Fulton county, was chairman of the appropriations committee of the Georgia house of representatives of 1911-12. He is intimately familiar with the state's financial affairs. He commends The Constitution's campaign for tax reform, points out fiscal evils and suggests remedies.)

Editor Constitution: Your timely and statesman-like editorial, "The Cause of the Trouble," in which you take issue with the annual and perennial howl about "legislative extravagance," hits the bull's-eye. This annual clamor is partly habit, largely insincere and mainly demagoguery. The people do not wish small appropriations, and they will not stand for them. Small appropriations mean limited performance of state functions, contrary to the spirit of the age. President Woodrow Wilson, in a recent article in World's Work, says: "It is perfectly clear to every man who has any vision of the immediate future . . . that we are just upon the threshold of a time when the systematic life of this country will be sustained or at least supplemented at every point by governmental activity."

But we do not need to take the dictum of any student of political history outside of our own observation, and do not need to look beyond our own state to see the amazing change that has, in recent years, transformed the character of government.

In 1880 the taxable property of the state was $251,424,651 and the tax rate was 2½ mills. In 1883 the value of the property of the state had increased to $306,921,188, and the rate was lowered to 2½ mills. But, at this period, no pensions were paid except a provision, in the nature of a pension, for the furnishing of artificial limbs to maimed soldiers; there was no appropriation to the public schools except the funds set apart by the constitution, amounting to $282,721, and the school population was 471,444, according to the last preceding school census, the appropriation being considerably less than $1 to each child; the University of Georgia consisted only of the college at Athens, the school at Dahlonega, the experiment station and a few other unimportant branch schools.

Increasing State Functions.

Soon the era of increased state functions began. In 1895 the university was enlarged by the establishment of the School for Colored Youths; in 1889, by the establishment of the Georgia Normal and Industrial school; in 1885, by the establishment of the School of Technology; in 1890, by the establishment of the State Normal school; in 1906, by the establishment of the State College of Agriculture; in 1906, by the establishment of the eleven district agricultural schools; in 1911, by the establishment of the Agricultural, Normal and Industrial school, at Valdosta. In 1897 the department of agriculture was enlarged by the creation of the department of horticulture and pomology; in 1889, by the creation of the department of geology, and, at various other times, the department was enlarged by increasing the functions of the department. In 1903 the state board of health was created. By numerous constitutional amendments, additional classes of pensioners have been created until these two funds have reached the great sum carried by the present general appropriation act. From an institution conferring little direct benefit on the citizen, except peace and safety (which are the great results of all benefits of government), the state has grown, within a generation, into a great institution of social co-operation and of material benefit. Great highways are being built by the state through the labor of convicts, the cost of which, estimating the labor of the convicts at the amount received during the last year of the operation of the lease system, plus the cost of maintenance of the prison department, amounts to an appropriation by the state of approximately a half million dollars annually; every needy soldier receives some assistance from the state; instruction in the public schools has constantly increased in quantity and in grade; secondary education is afforded at the state's expense in every congressional district; opportunities of industrial and technical education are afforded in great institutions; education in the pure sciences is given at a university which stands high among state universities; agricultural education is afforded by a school of agriculture and valuable extension work is done among the farmers; development of the mineral resources of the state is fostered by a competent department of geology; the public health is protected by the agencies of the state board of health; the scourge of diphtheria is guarded against by the keeping of anti-toxin within the reach of every citizen; rabies is prevented by the furnishing of preventive serum; sources of typhoid are discovered by the free analysis of drinking water; animal industry is protected by measures for the prevention of disease and for the eradication of cattle pests; agriculture, horticulture and pomology are encouraged and protected by the dissemination of information by analysis of fertilizer and by the expenditure of the public moneys for the destruction of vermin and the prevention of plant disease.

A realization of the value of these agencies has created a public sentiment in favor of this enlarged character of state government. The increase of the functions of government is the irresistible law behind the political and social evolution of the age and it will continue.

Expensive Parsimony.

The civil establishment of Georgia is run upon the least cent upon which it can be run with reasonable efficiency, and any decrease of appropriations must be at the expense of the agencies of direct benefit to the citizen, and the statesman who has no other remedy for the improvement of the state's finances but a decrease of appropriations has a remedy unworthy the spirit of the age and one so destructive of the public welfare that no ambitious and growing state will adopt it.

In 1909 the chairman of the committee on appropriations, Hon. W. R. Jones, undertook to hold the appropriations for the years 1910 and 1911 within the revenues. Under his strong influence this was done for the year 1910 and a small surplus was created for that year. For the year 1911 the irresistible demand for a larger state function increased the appropriations to a sum more than $680,000 greater than they were the year previous, and a deficit was created.

When the committee on appropriations for the years 1911 and 1912, whose duty it was to prepare the bill making appropriations for the years 1912 and 1913, undertook that task, it was confronted with an enlarged budget, and the problem before it was whether or not it would reduce the budget or attempt to maintain it as it inherited it, with the necessary normal increases to certain of the public institutions for which the public welfare seemed to demand slightly increased appropriations. The latter plan was adopted, and when the general appropriation bill of 1911, making appropriations for 1912 and 1913, came from the committee, the chairman stated that the bill, as reported, would, if the taxable values should continue to increase as they were then increasing, at the end of the year 1913 leave a small surplus, if no increase were made in the items of the general bill and no special appropriations should be made, and he advised the house not to make special appropriations for the two years amounting to more than $100,000. An addition of $100,000 was made in the house to the common school fund, and other small increases were made in the general bill. So great and irresistible was the demand for special appropriations that, in round numbers, $160,000 of special appropriations were made for the year 1912, and $90,000 for the year 1913. When the general appropriation bill was passed in 1911 the receipts from the dog tax were about $150,000 per year. By reason of the Tarver bill, passed in 1912, the preliminary report of the comptroller general estimates that the receipts from the dog tax for the year 1913 will be only about $10,000.

It will be seen from the above figures that the appropriations were about $290,000 more than was advised by the chairman of the appropriation committee for the years 1912 and 1913, and that $141,000 of revenue has been cut off for the year 1913. The comptroller's estimate of the deficit for the two years is $434,000, agreeing almost exactly with the estimate of the writer made two years ago.

Answering your question, "Why are we disgraced by the recurring spectacle of spending more than we receive?" the answer is, because the people of the state demand that their state shall be run upon an efficient plan, performing reasonably all the functions of government, and the legislature has not had the nerve to raise a corresponding amount of revenue.

Every well-informed member of the legislature realized the situation two years ago. What should the legislature have done? Putting aside the question of a revision of the tax system at that time, the legislature did exactly what it should have done; that is, maintain the institutions of the state at their existing standard of efficiency until the present time, giving the legislature now convening the opportunity to solve the financial difficulty.

Just Two Ways.

There are only two ways in which the legislature could have prevented the present deficit, by reducing appropriations. In 1911, One was to reduce the common school fund or pensions, and the other was to reduce the maintenance of the institutions of higher learning, or the eleemosynary institutions of the state. Public sentiment would not stand for a reduction of the common school fund or of the pension fund. The man who would have proposed such a reduction would not have gotten twenty-five votes. There could be no reduction in the civil establishment, because the officers of the state are poorly paid now and their salaries could not be reduced. Not a dollar taken away from money from the deaf, the dumb, the blind or the insane is unthinkable. To have taken away $680,000 from the higher educational institutions of the state would have closed every such institution in the state. The slight increases made to the higher educational institutions of the state did not amount to more than about $30,000.

Those who carp at the legislature on account of appropriations forget that by the abolition of the convict lease and the working of the convicts on the public roads of the state, nearly one-half million dollars a year of direct revenue has been cut off for the past five years.

Notwithstanding the tremendous financial problem presented by the curtailment of sources of revenue, the institutions of the state have been taken care of by the appropriation bill of 1911, the credit of the state has not, up to this time, been impaired, and the preliminary report of the comptroller general says:

"That, notwithstanding the large increase of appropriations for the support of the state government for the year 1912 over the year 1911, the demands upon the state treasury have been met, though it was found necessary to make a temporary loan of $200,000. This was only made possible by the abnormal increase in the taxable values of the state for the last four years, amounting to $136,976,917, thus increasing the revenue of the state $684,882, as well as an increase from the special and occupations taxes and from other sources."

There is a relation between the proper maintenance of the functions of government and the public prosperity, and appropriations that are apportioned to the common benefits obtained therefrom are in the nature of an investment rather than an expense, and statesmanship in the administration of the public finances consists in determining the due proportion of his earnings which the citizen should contribute in taxes for common distribution in the support of the agencies of government maintained at that degree of efficiency which will make the highest common contribution to the public comfort and welfare.

It does not require statesmanship to merely reduce appropriations. The institutions of the state passed through a crisis in 1911 and they stand today, by reason of the action of the legislature of 1911, unimpaired. They are maintained upon as high a degree of efficiency as the public welfare demands. No harm has yet been done the state or its finances. The legislature is now meeting and has the remedy in its power. This is the advantage of annual sessions of the legislature; that any condition may be cured so soon as it becomes urgent.

The Remedy.

In the writer's opinion, the necessary legislation and constitutional changes to meet the needs of the situation are the following:

(1) The provision, by constitutional amendment, for an additional tax levy for one or two years, supplementing the common school fund sufficiently to pay the salaries of the teachers as they are earned, said fund to be used for no other purpose.

(2) The provision, by constitutional amendment, for a maximum tax levy of a certain number of mills for the support of the common schools, with the provision that no other funds, except those set apart by the constitution, shall be appropriated for this purpose.

(3) A provision similar to the preceding for the payment of pensions.

(4) The enactment of a law providing a reasonable graduated inheritance tax.

(5) The adoption of a thorough system for the assessment and equalization of taxes.

MRS. LANIER ACQUITTED OF MURDERING INFANT

Verdict May Effect Case of Husband, Sentenced to Life Imprisonment.

Waycross, Ga., June 24.—(Special.)—Mrs. W. C. Lanier was tonight declared not guilty of the murder of her infant son. The jury returned this verdict exactly five hours after the case reached them. Owing to the report that the jury had earlier stood about unanimously in favor of acquittal the verdict was not a surprise.

Mrs. Lanier received the verdict without any emotion beyond a quickening of her breath and flushed cheeks. Her mother, Mrs. Damon, did not take the verdict so quietly, as she immediately flung her arms around her daughter and kissed her passionately, declaring that she knew her girl had got done what the indictment charged. For some time after the reading of the verdict the acquitted woman was surrounded by relatives and friends, who congratulated her on the verdict and assured her of their faith in her.

To these remarks the woman had nothing to say, but smiled happily.

The news was rushed to her husband, who is in jail pending motion for a new trial. His sentence is life imprisonment. In view of the acquittal of Mrs. Lanier there is much speculation as to what effect this will have on the husband's case.

Mrs. Lanier left the courtroom accompanied by her parents, and is spending the night with them.

"I just somehow felt that no jury could convict any one of a crime they did not commit," she is said to have told her mother as they left the courtroom.

With the court room packed as it has never been packed before, the trial of the woman was resumed this morning, and within an hour and a half the state and defense had concluded their examination of witnesses.

Denies Killing Baby.

Mrs. Lanier took the stand and in a statement was frequently interrupted by her crying. She told the jury that she had nothing to do with the killing of the infant and did not think her husband had either. She declared that shortly after the birth of the child she had fed drowsy and had gone to sleep, awakening when a nolse in the room disturbed her. She said when she opened her eyes her husband was sitting on the bed by her and that he first looked at her and then at their baby, having a distressed look on his face.

"I asked him what the trouble was, and he said, 'Our baby is dead.' I thought the baby had been taken to an undertaker's, and would have gone with it myself if I had been able. I am not guilty of the charge."

Doctors on stand.

Referring to the statement by Dr. J. H. Latimer that she asked him to stop the child's breathing, she said she did not remember saying anything of the sort to the physician, but did not deny that she had talked with him. Much of the testimony by Dr. M. B. Johnson and Dr. A. Fleming today was of a technical nature. Dr. D. M. Bradley, health officer, told of his investigations of the case and of Lanier's arrest by city police on the charge of violating the city ordinance covering the removal of dead bodies from Waycross. A motion by the attorneys for the defense to strike out the testimony submitted by Dr. Bradley and a negro employee of his relative to the hiring of the buggy used by Lanier to take the remains to Pierce county, where the body was buried in a sand hill, and the testimony of Dr. Latimer relative to the statement made to him, was overruled by Judge Parker.

During the solicitor general's summary of the evidence against Mrs. Lanier the defendant was crying continually, and hid her face in a handkerchief. Her mother sat by her, and appeared almost on the verge of a collapse. As the jury receive the court's charge the defendant was very pale and watched every move the jurymen made. After the jury had retired she and her mother seemed to have recovered somewhat, but when a hour passed with no word from the jury their nervousness was apparent.

Mrs. Lanier's attorneys were John H. Walker and Charles L. Redding, and the state was represented by M. D. Dickerson, solicitor general. All made strong arguments before the jury.

AS ATTORNEY ARGUES JURYMAN TAKES SNOOZE

Macon, Ga., June 24.—(Special.)—J. S. Raley, a juror in the city court, was literally talked to sleep this afternoon while sitting in a damage suit case. Attorney George S. Jones had been arguing the case for about an hour, when Judge Hodges happened to notice that Raley was taking a snooze.

The court was righteously indignant and at once sent a bailiff to awaken the sleeping juror. It took several good shakes to arouse him. Judge Hodges promptly excused Raley as a juror for the term and fined him $1 a minute for each of the fifteen minutes he had been asleep.

NO WOMEN TOOK PART IN AMERICUS LYNCHING

Sensational Reports Printed in Some State Papers Denounced at Mass Meeting.

Americus, Ga., June 24.—(Special.)—A mass meeting of representative citizens was held this afternoon at which resolutions were adopted regarding erroneous and sensational articles in several state papers yesterday to the effect that young ladies in their teens participated in the lynching here Saturday night. The error was in the use of the words "young ladies," when it should have been "young lads." The mass meeting adopted the following resolutions:

"Whereas, there has been published in several state papers under a special news service from Americus that young ladies took part in the hideous lynching of Will Redding on last Saturday night, and whereas, the error grew out of reading 'lads in their teens' as sent by the local correspondent for 'ladies in their teens;'

"Be it resolved by the people of Americus in mass meeting assembled, That while we hang our heads in shame at the disgrace which has fallen upon our fair city by the unlawful act of a few, and which is condemned by all good people of Americus and Sumter county, yet we condemn those papers for the utter disregard for the good name of Americus and especially its women in not confirming this item before publishing.

"Be it further resolved, That we especially condemn the reckless, sensational spirit which inclined The Macon News to 'play up' the story in the glaring head lines, 'Young Women in Orgie at Americus,' as not in keeping with the high regard which manly men show women everywhere. There is not a more refined and more noble womanhood anywhere than in Americus and the men of Americus deplore this arrest injustice done them by the public press, recklessly and without any effort to know the truth."

Some claim to have seen a man riding rapidly away on horseback.

Deason was arrested at the instance of the victim's father and placed in the county jail. O'Donnell had been in the community for several weeks, engaged in boring a well. He was regarded as an orderly citizen.

JUDGE NORWOOD'S WILL TO BE PROBATED TODAY

Savannah, Ga., June 24.—(Special.)—The will of Judge Thomas M. Norwood, who died at his country estate, Haddock Hall, Thursday, was made public today. It will be probated tomorrow after a meeting of the board of directors of the Citizens' and Southern bank. At this meeting the board will formally accept for the bank the position of executor to trustee for the Norwood estate, the instrument expressing Judge Norwood's desire for this bank to act in this capacity.

The value of the Norwood estate is estimated at $300,000. The will provides that Mrs. J. T. McLaws, Judge Norwood's daughter; Lacy M. Norwood, his son, and George M. Norwood, his grandson, shall each get an equal share of the property, but their interests shall consist of a life estate. By a system of remainders the one-third shares of the estate left in life tenures to the three legatees shall descend to the children of the legatees.

BITE OF RATTLESNAKE FATAL FOR YOUNG BOY

Savannah, Ga., June 24.—(Special.)—In terrible agony from the bite of a rattlesnake inflicted near Bethesda yesterday, Edward, the 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Jackson, died today.

The boy had been picking huckleberries with his brother in the fields near his father's home, which is near Bethesda, when the snake bit him on the leg. The boy ran home to his parents, screaming, and Mr. Jackson, who was suffering with a cut in his mouth, realizing that it would mean death to him to suck the wound, rushed the boy to Bethesda in a wheelbarrow. Here Superintendent Chaplin applied all the first-aid remedies, but the poison got in its work before they sucked the blood.

Large Barn Burned.

Canton, Ga., June 24.—(Special.)—Gus Coggins' barn, located on his large farm near Canton, was destroyed by fire this afternoon. This was the largest barn in north Georgia, and the loss was heavy, as the barn was only partially covered by insurance. About 2,000 bushels of corn farming implements and a bountiful oat crop just harvested were stored in the building. The origin of the fire is unknown.

CHANGES TO BE MADE IN CURRENCY MEASURE

It Will Not Be Pushed for Action Until It Has Been Amended.

Washington, June 24.—The administartion currency bill is to undergo some important changes before it is pushed for action in either house or senate, although the measure will be introduced in both houses virtually in the same form in which it was recently made public by Representative Glass.

The provision for the retirement of national bank notes and the refunding of 2 per cent government bonds with a 2 per cent issue is to be put back into the measure later, it is understood, with the consent of the administration. This provision was in the bill before the final conferences at the white house, but was taken out because of the opposition of Secretary Bryan and others.

Much of the criticism against the measure among members of both houses, since its terms became public, has been directed at the proposal to create a new kind of paper currency without withdrawing the national bank notes or providing against a depreciation in value on the 2 per cent government bonds that secure these notes. It is said now that this objection has become so strong as to convince administration leaders the provision must be restored if the bill is to pass.

Chairman Glass and democratic members of the house currency committeee, at a conference today, agreed to undertake individually to "sound out" impartial bankers, business men, experts and students of financial affairs, to ascertain how the provisions of the Glass bill are regarded by that part of the public which will be most directly affected by monetary changes. Members of the senate committee on banking and currency, democrats and republicansh will meet President Wilson at the white house tomorrow night for their first discussion of the new measure with him.

Representative Lindburgh, of Minnesota, progressive member of the house banking and currency committee and originator of the "money trust" investigation, criticised the new bill in a statement today.

"If enacted in its present form," he said, "the bill would deal with the banking interests only. It has no direct relation to the people except in the creation of a national reserve board."

BALL WILL BE GIVEN FOR YANCEY FAMILY

With the funds for the family of Deputy Dave Yancey, who was killed ten days ago by a negro thief, whom he was trying to arrest, still coming in slowly, the membeds of the Owls' Club are making plans for an elaborate entertainment Friday night in their roof garden, from the proceeds of which it is hoped to raise several hundred dollars for the cause.

The use of the clubrooms and dance floor on the roof garden have been given by the members of the club, and tickets are being sold daily. The tickets will cost only 25 cents for men, and ladies will be admitted free.

"BOSS" COX OBJECTED TO LOANS BY THE BANK

Cincinnati, June 24.—That George B. Cox, former president of the defunct Cincinnati Trust company, had strenuously objected to repeated loans by the bank to the Ford & Johnson Chair company, of which he was a director, was testified to here today by George E. Powell, of New York, former treasurer of the chair company. Mr. Cox is the first of eight former officials of the bank on trial for alleged misapplication of $115,000 of the funds of the bank which was lent to the Ford & Johnson company after that firm was in an insolvent condition, the state charges.

Mr. Powell testified that it had been the custom of the directors of the bank to loan $15,000 each week to the Ford & Johnson company to meet its pay roll. On his application for a renewal of this loan when the affairs of the Ford & Johnson company were declared to be hazardous, Mr. Powell said that Mr. Cox arose and said: "Not another dirty dime will you get."

Other witnesses during the day testified as to the condition of the chair company when it was receiving loans from the Cincinnati Trust company. The trial will be resumed tomorrow.

Chaingangs in Georgia

"You have turned justice into gall." —Amos vi:12.

Six thousand one hundred and thirty-nine souls are in our chaingangs.

At dawn, the striped suits appear, the shackles clank in our city streets and country roads.

Women and children shuddering pass them as they work and sweat under the eyes of armed men until darkness draws near to hide the marks of their infamy.

AGAIN THEY ARE CHAINED TOGETHER.

And like monstrous striped snakes with men for vertebrae and chains for spinal cords, the squads in the gathering gloom squirm, shuffling and clinking their weary way back into camp.

A gang halts before a door. They stand, excepting one. He runs forward, drawing from between them the rattling chain now unlocked. To the ground it drops.

The men enter a long, dimly lighted room.

On both sides beds are jammed together, forming an aisle. In its center at intervals are boxes or cans, and tubs. Around its length goes another chain.

The men remove their clothes. They cannot get off their shackles. Begins a horrible clanking. The chain is being passed from shackle to shackle linking man to man. Repeatedly it crashes to the floor between them. At last, its ends are bolted to the wall on both sides of the door. They are again one in their wretchedness.

Here and there one drags the chain to a tub and washes. Man after man uses the same foul water.

Then comes food borne on a hand-barrow.

Each man gets his rations.

Seated on his bed, he eats.

Before his face waits the unspeakable box, hideous receptable for unnamable human filth.

CHAINED TOGETHER, THE MEN LIE DOWN TO SLEEP.

To their mutual misery—to the lash hanging at the door—to the sting of conscience and the agony of memory in the long hours of the night are added the bite of the leg shackle on the naked skin and the clank of the endless chain as they turn and toss, trying to rest.

Georgia daily thus degrades and drives men deeper into hell.

Statistics are meager as to the thousands of misdemeanor, or short term, men.

But two thousand eight hundred and ninety of the six thousand one hundred and thirty-nine are felony convicts. They are under long sentence.

Among these are two twelve-year-old boys, and two of thirteen.

Three of fourteen, eleven of fifteen, twenty of sixteen.

Thirty of seventeen, eighty-five of eighteen, ninety-one of nineteen.

One hundred and twenty-three of twenty, and one hundred and sixty-three of twenty-one.

Children are out of place in convict camps.

YOU SHOULD NOT CHAIN FIRST OFFENDERS TO HARDENED CRIMINALS.

Ancients fettered a living man to a corpse to kill him by the decay of the dead.

You would not kill the young man who has slipped.

But you do worse: you chain him to the old offender, the moral leper: you thus poison his soul and devote him to a living death of crime.

He comes forth the habitual criminal, a menace to the living.

When folly weds cruelty, their offspring is this affront to God and man.

From it save the boy.

Sixteen hundred and forty-five of these long-term men have wives.

At home? Have they homes? You know not.

You are therefore punishing sixteen hundred and forty-five women and, without doubt, over five thousand children. You deprive them of their support.

WHY? WHAT IS THEIR OFFENSE? THEIR BIRTH.

But their fathers and husbands have committed crimes?

Yes. And in defiling zebra suits and clanking chains they pay.

They build your roads; under the fear of your lash, they work; but their degradation and heart-breaking labor brings no morsel of food to those women and children; their shame does not clothe their wives and babies.

Shall the sons—

Shall the daughters—

Shall the wives follow in their steps, since great Georgia takes their all, the labor of these men, and gives nothing in return?

Boast not of our roads today. Each foot of them has been built at frightful cost—the sorrow and suffering of women and children, and the humiliating degradation of men. Rather should we be ashamed.

TO BUILD ROADS IS WISE.

But to make criminals in order to build roads is madness. And to crush men, women and children in the building is not to be endured.

Neither is necessary.

Roads can be built, and men made in the building. Elsewhere it is being done.

It can and will be done in Georgia.

You will help.

Speak to your representatives in the House and in the Senate.

Ask them to support those measures that will enable our officials to free us from our disgrace.

In Christ's name forget politics! Stop a criminally heartless intent; men in authority do not willfully degrade and hurt their fellow creatures.

In Christ's name forget politics! Stop and think!

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF THE MEN AND RELIGION FORWARD MOVEMENT

SOCIETY

Society Assembles Thursday At the New Country Club

The formal opening of the country home of the Capital City club Thursday afternoon and evening will be a brilliant occasion socially, in which Atlanta society, ever appreciative of the social factorship of the Capital City club, will assemble there to bid welcome to the department of the club in its career for pleasure.

Like the good citizen who has served well in that capacity, who has made a success in business and fulfilled his every obligation, finds his spirit seeking rest and quiet and nature's beauties in the county, the membership of the club found themselves longing for a country home for the summer months.

They wanted their own golf links, their own lake, their own retreat for summer pastimes and, like everything else the club reaches for, they wanted the best.

They have it in having leased the Brookhaven club, the club house proper occupying a site which commands the most beautiful views in the county or counties adjoining. Nature has lavished upon the scenery, and now tasteful development is making for the club a complete comfort and convenience.

The name of "Brookhaven" has given way to that of Capital City Country club, and plans are now made which will insure the country life of the Capital City club measuring in brilliancy with that of the "town house" and affording thereby a place of continued recreation and pleasure during the summer months.

The afternoon end of the entertainment Thursday will begin at 5 o'clock when the entire club house will be opened for the pleasure of the guests. There will be music and refreshments, while in the evening there will be dancing. The living room, main reception hall and dining room can be converted into a ballroom, opening on the three porches which surround the club building.

The Thursday afternoon dances will be continued during the summer months, and provision is being made for the dainty service of guests at the tea hour, when the golf players will assemble after that all popular game.

Mr. Robert F. Maddox, the president of the club, and Mrs. Maddox and the officers of the club and directors and their wives will compose the receiving party Thursday afternon and evening.

Porter-Stillman.

The marriage is announced of Miss Margaret Porter and Dr. Lowe Stillman, which took place yesterday morning at the residence of Dr. Dunbar Ogden, of the Central Presbyterian church, who officiated.

Dr. and Mrs. Stillman left immediately after the ceremony for a short wedding trip and returning about July 1, they will be at home at 285 Fourth street.

The wedding, while it was a quiet one, assembling only the two families and a very few close friends, centered the interest of a large acquaintance. The bride is a popular and charming young woman, and the groom is prominent in the professional world.

The wedding of Miss Katherine Guerry Carlisle and Mr. Luther Broadus Clardy, of Laurens, S. C., took place yesterday morning at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Felix W. Carlisle, on North Boulevard. On account of the illness of the bride's mother the marriage was a quiet one, the ceremony being witnessed by only members of the family and a few intimate friends. Dr. Purser was the officiating minister. The bride wore a becoming gown of blue cloth with hat to match and she carried lilies of the valley. Mr. and Mrs. Clardy will be at home in Laurens.

A delightful event of the afternoon will be the garden party to be given at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Slaton, on Peachtree road, by the Atlanta Chapter, D. A. R. An interesting musical program will be a feature of the entertainment.

Mrs. Carthew-Yorston will give a group of old-fashioned songs and Mrs. Mary Wyatt Lovelace will sing "There Is No Spring But You," by Lehman, and "Joy of Morning," by Harriett Ward. Mr. Watters will also give several selections and Mrs. Iverson Graves will be accompanist. Mrs. Slaton will be assisted in entertaining by the officers of the chapter and Mrs. W. D. The Dansant.

Mrs. Thornton Marye will entertain a few of her informal friends at a dancing tea this afternoon at the Driving club.

To Miss Smith.

Miss Callie Hoke Smith, who is spending this week with her sister, Mrs. Ronald Ransom, is a charming figure at the informal gaieties which are making up the summer social life.

Yesterday she was the guest of Miss Virginia Lipscomb at luncheon at the Capital City club, when the other member of the party were Miss Lipscomb's guests, Miss Gladys Teague, of Augusta, and Miss Adgate Ellis.

For Thursday afternoon Miss Sarah Rawson has invited a few young ladies for tea at the Driving club to meet Miss Smith. She will be one of the visiting belles at the opening of the Capital City Country club and at other entertainments.

Afternoon Tea.

Pink rosebuds were the motif of Miss Helen Jones' afternoon tea yesterday, and assembled to enjoy it was a rosebud gathering of girls with a goodly number of their masculine admirers.

They were invited to meet Miss Jones' charming cousin, Miss Margaret Buckner, of Roanoke, and from 5 until 1 o'clock house and terrace and lawn were gay with them. The music of an orchestra was another incident of enjoyment and delicious refreshments were served. The table in the dining room laden with sandwiches and sweets was decorated with pink roses, and the ices and cakes were pink.

Famous Dancer Gives Complexion Secrets

(Aileen Moore, in Beauty's Mirror.)

I've learned the secret of Dolores' entrancing beauty — the wondrous charm that has dazzled the courts of Europe and captivated vast audiences everywhere. The famous dancer abhors recipes and cosmetics. Yet despite the strenuosity of her life, she retains the incomparable complexion best described as "indescribable." An intimate friend tells me the senorita regularly uses the simple but what druggists know as mercolized wax. This is applied at night in the manner cold cream is used, and washed off in the morning. It absorbs the dead particles of skin, which daily appear, and a fair, soft, fresh, girlish complexion is always in evidence.

Dolores' skin is not marred by a single wrinkle, not even the finest line. She wards these off by daily bathing the face in a solution made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half-pint witch hazel. As your drug stores keep these ingredients, as well as mercolized wax (one ounce of the wax is sufficient), no doubt your readers will welcome this information.

CHARTER REFORM WILL BE ISSUE THIS FALL

Mayor Woodward Will Lead the Fight and the Issue Will Be Clean Cut.

That charter reform will be one of the biggest issues in the councilmanic elections next March, has been clearly indicated by Mayor James G. Woodward, Atlanta's charter reform leader.

When Mayor Woodward made his race for the mayoralty last December, the strongest plank in his entire platform was charter reform. His first serious split with council was over his effort to have the Candler-McClelland-Hopkins charter adopted by council and submitted to the legislature and then to the people.

Council ignored the demand of 5,000 voters to submit both the mayor's charter and the instrument drawn by council for the people. Mayor Woodward declared war on council and council's policies. He now intimates that unless the people of Atlanta return a council favorable to his policies he will loppose the $1,500,000 bond issue.

Mayor Woodward sounded the opening of the fall campaign Tuesday afternoon, when he declared:

Want Charter Reform.

"The votes of 5,000 citizens show plainly that the people of Atlanta were charter reforms. More votes were returned by postal card than were cast when I was nominated for mayor. Council ignored the people, and now they ask the same people to support a bond issue of $1,500,000.

"I am not opposed to a bond issue. I would like to see the city issue more than a million and a half, but I want to see a people's council in office to spend the money right before I'll support an issue. Let the people give me a council, and I'll undertake to get Atlanta out of the hole before my term expires. Then, if the people still think that a bond issue is necessary, I'll take the stump and urge it. All I want to see is an administration that will look after the interests of the people."

There will be four aldermen and ten councilmen to go before the people in March for election. In the event Alderman John E. McClelland, of the Second ward, insists on Mayor Woodward accepting his resignation, it will make fifteen in all. Alderman McClelland was the mayor's floor leader in the charter reform fight.

The retiring members are Councilman A. H. Baskin, First ward; Councilman C. D. Knight, Second ward; Alderman James E. Warren and Councilman Orville H. Hall, Third ward; Alderman James B. Everett and Councilman Albert Thomson, Fourth ward; Councilman J. J. Greer, Fifth ward; Jesse M. Wood, Sixth ward; Alderman F. J. Spratling and Councilman Roy Abernathy, Seventh ward; Alderman Arthur H. Van Dyke and Councilman Clarence Haverty, Eighth ward; Councilman Charles W. Smith, Ninth ward, and Councilman Claude L. Mason, Tenth ward.

Will Seek Re-Election.

Several retiring members of council will seek re-election, and thus far no opposition has sprung up. They are Alderman James E. Warren and Councilman Orville H. Hall, Third ward; Councilman Albert Thomson will seek, it is said. Alderman Everett's place. Councilman Jesse M. Wood will seek re-election. He has no opposition to date. Councilman Charles Whiteford Smith will ask for re-election from the Ninth ward, and it is expected that Councilman Claude L. Mason will be returned from the Tenth.

Here are some of the candidates who have either announced their intentions of participating in the fall elections, or who have been put into the field by their friends: Guy Meyers, First ward, to succeed Councilman A. H. Baskin; W. H. Kelley and Harvey Hatcher, in the second ward to succeed Alderman McClelland. Councilman C. D. Knight is being urged by friends to seek the higher place, and W. L. Parker will probably seek Councilman Knight's place.

R. E. George is being put forward to succeed Councilman Thomson, in the Fourth ward. Councilman Thomson is regarded as the most likely candidate for the place which Alderman Everett will vacate.

It is understood that Alderman Everett will aspire to a place on one of the boards at the expiration of his term.

A three-cornered race is on in the Fifth ward over the place to be vacated by Councilman J. J. Greer who was regarded as the Fifth's most formidable representative in council. Jesse B. Lee has announced his candidacy against Judge Russell Shirley and Dr. B. E. Pearce.

The race in the Seventh ward over Alderman Spratling's place will be spirited. Councilman Roy Abernathy has declared that at the end of the present term he will drop out of politics. He says he is thoroughly disgusted with the continual harangue between the mayor and council. For the two places in the Seventh ward Dan Walraven, Dr. J. C. White, Marcellus Anderson and Jesse Armistead have been suggested.

Hancock a Candidate.

Alderman Arthur Van Dyke's retirement in the Eighth ward following Clarence Haverty's declaration that he is done with politics for the time being, will leave two vacancies to be filled. W. A. Hancock, former alderman from the Seventh will go after the Van Dyke place, ex-Mayor Courtland Winn will, it is said, seek a place in council.

Frank Reynolds, at present serving as a member of the park board, has been urged to enter the race, and is considering.

J. P. Wall will oppose Charles W. Smith for council in the Ninth ward.

Aside from the issue of charter reform and the question of floating another bonded debt, the matter of taxation will enter into the campaign.

The finances of the city are in such shape now that it is imperative that something be done. Quite a few members of council are opposed to a bond issue of less than $6,000,000.

If the people repudiate the bond issue, the next question will be taxation for increasing the city's finances.

Cut nails are rapidly disappearing from Japanese markets, states Consul General Sammons.

Railroads will build a $4,500,000 bridge over the Ohio river, between Metropolis, Ill., and Paducah, Ky.

With an even break at New Orleans, the Crackers move on to Memphis to open up a three-game series there today.

Crackers Lose Last—Motors Buzz Tonight

EDITED BY Dick Jemison

WHIFFS

Merry Battle.

SOUTHPAWS Price, Coveleskie and Sommers are waging a pretty battle for the leading pitching honors in the Southern league this season. At present Sommers is leading with twelve games won and three lost, a percentage of .800. Coveleskie, with fourteen wins and four defeats, is second with a percentage of .778. Price is third, with nine victories and three defeats, a percentage of .750.

Did Little Good.

TY COBB did not profit any by Joe Jackson's indefinite banishment. Cobb is out of the pastime himself with a bum leg and he may not get back for some time. In fact it would not be surprising to see Jackson back in harness again before Cobb recovers.

Going Strong.

ATLANTA tennis players are going at a strong clip in the southern tennis championships at New Orleans. They are making a bid for all honors again. They won them all last season, smith winning the singles and Smith and Thornton the doubles.

Still Leader

WHITEY Alpermann continues to lead his teammmates in driving in tallies. The cotton topped second sacker has sent fifty-four tallies across the plate this season, including last Sunday's game with the Pels. Farty have been sent across by hits, ten on errors following his hits, three on infield outs and one as the result of getting a base on balls with the bases full. Welchonce is second with 47 and Smith third, with 37. The other players who have driven in more than ten runs are as follows: Bisland, 23; Long, 20; Agler, 22; Bailey, 21; Dunn, 16.

Going Great.

SID SMITH is catching every game for the Columbus, American association team, again, this season, and hitting like a house afire. In the last eight games the Columbus team has played Sid has secured eleven hits in twenty-eight times up, an average of .390, and a glance at the back box scores show that he has been traveling at this clip since the season opened. The Columbus team is leading the pennant race. Charley Hemphill, former Cracker manager, is another player who is going strong in the A. A. In the last seven games played Hemphill has secured fourteen hits in thirty-one times up, an average of .455.

On the Coast.

TWO FORMER Atlanta players, Dick Bayless and Roy Moran, are playing great ball in the Pacific Coast league. Both are hitting well over the .300 mark and fielding in the sensational way that they showed when they were Crackers. Bayless is the only member of the Venice team that has not been out of the game at some time during the season, and this accounts for the poor standing of the team in the pennant race. Jimmy Johnson, former Baron, is another player who is cutting up in this league. Jimmy is hitting close to .400, and stealing bases like he did in this league.

A Year Ahead.

HARRY MATTHEWS, former Cracker catcher, has made good since he took charge of the talented Newport team in the Virginia league. He has been tendered a contract for next season and given free rein to build up his club. The tailenders have not been such easy pickings since Matty took charge.

Southpaw Canned.

LEFTY DYE, who pitched part of a game against the Crackers at Ponce de Leon, when the Nashville Vols were here, has been cast adrift to make room for the acquisition of Pitcher Red Nelson by the Allibis from the Cincinnati Reds. Kitty Coalby, the second sacker, is going to be benched as soon as Almeida joins the Vols, and Perry shifted to the keystone.

No Cause.

THE SKEPTICS who laughed at Bad Bill Fisher at the start of the season, when he predicted that the Brooklyn Superbas would finish in the first division, have no cause to laugh at him now. Daniels and Fisher are making good, and after recovering from the recent slump are now traveling at the pace that made them the sensation of the National league when they broke in this season. They have won eight of the last nine games they have played.

The One Bugbear.

FANS have one big fault to find with the great national pastime. They howl with derision when a pitcher passes a star batsman with a couple of men on the bases. But in our way of thinking, it is all on the point of view. If the batter in question happens to be the slugger of the visiting team and the pitcher is good at doing the passing, the howls are few and far between. It all depends on which foot the shoe fits.

Better Results.

THE CRACKERS ought to get better results in Memphis this trip, despite the fact that the Turtles have just cleaned up with the Chattanooga Lookouts. If the Cracker batsmen can go out and get the same big lead for the pitchers this trip as they did the time they played Red Ellam, we'll guarantee that no pitcher kicks the pastime away, especially if he has seven runs ahead. Bill Smith will use every pitcher he's got before he permits this to happen.

BLOOD DISEASED? THEN ACT QUICKLY

From the blood all the solid tissues take their food and oxygen. Unless the poison is checked it will soon affect the entire body. If you have dry, rough skin, pimples on the face, swollen tonsils, sore throat and the voice husky, if the joints become swollen and stiff, if you have catarrh and feel all stuffed up, if you cannot eat right, think right, work right—don't delay. Write at once to Dr. Brown, 852 Arch St., Philadelphia, the Blood Specialist, or send for a bottle of BROWN'S BLOOD TRETMENT, $2 enough to last a month. Sold in Atlanta by the Jacobs' Pharmacy.

Rube Evans Outhurls Price; Errors Aid Pels In Victory; Bailey Put Out of the Game

By Sam L. Gilbert.

New Orleans, June 24.—(Special.)—Tuesday's pastime was calculated to make everybody present balmy in the bean, for almost every known precedent was upset and the jinx jotted from one team to the other, finally settling solidly upon the Crackers, who were defeated 4 to 2.

Rube Evans slightly outpitched Gilbert Price, the Atlanta star, but the battle belonged to anyone until the second half of the eighth.

Ray Spencer was the hero of the ward matinee. The eighth opened for the locals with Johnny Clancy sending a long drive to right which George Rohe muffed. Clancy made second and stayed anchored there while McDowell was beating out a scratchy hit through third to short. Bisland getting the ball to Agler a moment too late. Then after Hendryx had tried to bunt and popped an easy foul up for Dunn to devour, Spencer swung at one waist high and close in.

Freak Three-Bagger.

He connected and the ball skipped directly over first, wandered on toward the corner of the bleachers and then hid itself in the grass. Before Agler could discover the pill, Spencer had made third and two runs scored. Agler threw to Wallie Smith and the latter erred, Spencer speeding home.

It was a freak triple, and won a freak ball game, for although Bisland drew four wide to start the ninth, the next three were easy.

Bases full, long, for the league's leading batsman, according to recently compiled averages, is Long, of Atlanta. He looked like the most harmless hitter Tuesday, falling down miserably by striking out in the seventh when the bases were bulging.

Kyle scratched a hit down the third base line in the first inning; McDowell drew a pass shortly afterwards, and in the fourth, Hendryx walked, but Pels went along very well until the fifth.

Pels Score First.

In this round Adams was safe on Bisland's fumble, and Rube Evans drove his battery mate to third by a double to the right field fence. Price then cut loose a mild pitch, Adams scoring. The visitors were unable to bag a bingle until the sixth, Bailey beating a bunt in the second, but being called out by Field Umpire Shockdale when Adams peeked to Snedecor. Bailey expressed his indignation strongly and "Stocky" wafted him off the field.

Long tallied the run that tied the score in the sixth. After two were down, Long purloined a base, stole second and raced in when Welchonce's single to short center was fumbled by Hendryx. Clancy then chipped in with a miscue on Alpermann's roller. Rohe's rap was gobbled up, Clancy to anedecor, ending it.

But the seventh is worth considering as a curiosity. Evans seemed to be losing his grip in this period and the fans were fixing to put up the shutters and go home before it was over.

"Smash 'em," Smith grounded out to Snedecor, but Bisland singled and went to second when Evans threw badly, trying to catch him off the sack. Agler advanced Bizz on an infield out, and when Joey Dunn came up Evans purposely passed him in order to get to Price.

Dunn Steals Second.

Dunn forthwith stole second, no attempt being made to prevent him. Then the funny part of it bobbed up. Evans couldn't get the ball over to Price—and Bill Hart, though he couldn't—and Price trotted down first, filling the cushions. It was really tragic what happens eto Long. He fanned, swinging like a wild man and missing the last drop ball by six inches.

Mobile, Ala., June 24.—Five successive hits in the first inning, which scored three runs, practically won today's game for Mobile, the final score being 8 to 1. Thompson was hit hard often and opportunely, while Campbell, though giving up twelve hits, kept them widely scattered, an error letting in the only run made off him. The work of Marcan and Robertson at bat featured, the former getting four singles, while Robertson numbered a home run, two bagger and two singles among his four. Stock fielded sensationally, accepting nine chances.

Montgomery, Ala., June 24.—Nashville took the last game of the series from Montgomery after an 11-inning struggle. The score was 6 to 5. Jan-zen's hitting was a feature. Out of four times up, he got two three-base hits and a single, scoring three of Montgomery's five runs. MOTORCYCLES TO SPEED TONIGHT

Saturday's Postponed Meet Is Scheduled — Woodward Sweepstakes Feature Event. Speedy Machines Here.

The Atlanta Motordrome will be thrown open to the public tonight for the third time, and with any sort of weather the speed fans of Atlanta will be presented with one of the finest racing cards that the country has ever seen.

Atlanta has gone clean daffy over the sport of drome racing and the game of neck-risking and wind-splitting at 90 miles an hour has reached its highest pitch of popularity in the Gate City. Tonight will undoubtedly see the greatest crowd of all at the local Motordrome.

The card tonight is one of especial excellence and one which is well calculated to bring out all the thrills and all the sensations that can be produced by this death-defying sport. It has been so arranged that it will throw the two fastest machines, manned by two of America's greatest riders, together in four heats. The men referred to are, of course, the leading riders now at the local Motordrome, "Tex" Richards and "Jock" McNeil. They stand first and second in the table of winning riders and they have never yet had a fair chance to try conclusions.

The riders are all worked up for this meet. The repeated postponements are pretty hard on men who must depend for their livelihood on board track racing on a no-meet-no-pay basis. They are ready to take any chance and to pull any tricks to get a victory. They have reached a stage where they are ready to bump one another off the track, sprinkle tacks or yank out magneto connections. And, consequently, the doings tonight will undoubtedly be more lively than at any other meet this season.

The third series of races at the Atlanta motordrome will be pulled off tonight (weather permitting), tonight's event being scheduled for last Saturday night, but postponed on account of the rain.

The feature event on the program will be the Woodward stakes, named in honor of Mayor Jim. This event will be at 2 miles, with a 5-mile final. The third heat of this event, with Richards, McNeil, Graves and Shields in it, should be the best and the fastest heat of the season thus far.

The motordrome purse, at 2 miles, with 5-mile finals, offers fine possibilities.

Cars will run, as usual, at short intervals from Five Points. Tickets for the races are on sale at the Tumlin and Shepherd shops. Racing will start at 8:30 o'clock, sharp.

Woodward Sweepstakes.

First Heat, 2 miles—No. 7, Georges Renel; No. 2, Harry Swartz; No. 6, Fred Luther.

Crackers At Red Elm Today; Conzelman Faces Turtles In Opening Game of Series

Bill Smith and his pennant chasing Crackers pay their second visit of the season to the Red Elm ball yard at Memphis this afternoon for a series of three games, beginning today and ending Friday afternoon.

On the last visit to the Bluff City the Turtles copped three of the four games that were played and in all three of the contests that were lost, the Crackers had a big enough lead to win nine games in ten, but poor pitching kicked away the contests.

In the first fray a four-run lead was kicked away. In the second, five runs were not sufficient, while in the third, a seven-run edge looked like a goose egg when the Turtle bats got through ringing base hits.

Pitching Better.

This time it should be different. The present pitching staff has shown lately that if the team will go out and get any such leads, the Crackers have won a pastime. And here's hoping that they continue that form in the present series.

Although it is not his turn, the chances are that Manager Smith will shoot Joe Conzelman at the Turtles in an effort to get the edge on the series by copping the first game. Conzelman is the man that can do it, and with the first game in the Crackers' ice chest, one of the two remaining games ought to be certain.

The Crackers and the Turtles have engaged in seven frolics this season, of which Bernhard's Braves have copped four and the Smithies three. Two out of three this trip would even the count for the Crackers for the season.

Glen Liebhardt, the "Iron Man," will probably draw the assignment from Bill Bernhard to pin it on the Crackers in the opening fray. He used to win rather regularly from the Crackers, but that was some years ago.

Here is the probable batting order of the two teams:

BURNS AND HERZOG FOR SPEEDY BESCHER

This Is Trade Now Rumored. "No Such Proposition" Says Garry Herrmann.

Little Falls, N. Y., June 24.—The report comes from St. Johnsville, the home of George Burns, left fielder of the New York Giants, that Burns and Third Baseman Herzog are to be traded for Outfielder Bob Bescher, of the Cincinnati club. The trade, it was reported, is to be consummated shortly.

Cincinnati, June 24.—President August Herrmann, of the Cincinnati National league team, stated this morning that there was absolutely no truth in the report that Left Fielder Bescher, of the Cincinnati team, would be traded for. Left Fielder Burns and Third Baseman Herzog, of the New York Nationals.

"No such proposition has ever been made," said Mr. Herrmann.

QUERIES ANSWERED

Under this head, the sporting editor will endeavor to answer all questions pertaining to all branches of sports.

Dick Jemison, Sporting Editor The Constitution. Please tell me where the Birmingham team will be playing from July 22 to 31. T. B.

July 22-23 is Montgomery.
July 24, 25, 26, in Memphis.
July 27, 28 and 29 in New Orleans.
July 30, 31, at Home with Chattanooga.

Dick Jemison, Sporting Editor The Constitution. With a man on third and two out, batter hits fair two bagger, is called out by the umpire for failing to touch first base. Does the run count? L. B. T.

No. As technically the batter did not touch first base when he failed to touch the base, thus causing the third out of the inning.

Dick Jemison, Sporting Editor The Constitution. I have a batter goes to bat and the first ball pitched brushes his leg, is he entitled to his base? C. Cash always played out by a batter when he is not hurt? H. F. B.

A. This is entirely in the judgment of the umpire. If he considers that in order to avoid the ball he is not entitled to his base. 2 Yes, in the event that both umpires agree on a substitute base runner or the player in question is taken out of the game entirely.

Games Wanted.

The Center Hill baseball team would like to arrange a game with an out-of-town team for next Saturday. Address A. E. Bailey, 475 Gordon street, or call Atlanta phone 1417.

A Word or Two of Cheer To Those in Search of Work

Columbus Was About Ready to Turn His Ships

—and go back to Europe when a lookout saw seaweed floating near the ship. A short time, and America was discovered.

Don't give up. Keep right at it—reading the Help Wanted columns of this paper and using the Situations Wanted columns. Many a man has stopped just short of success. A step or two farther; a day or two more and his dream would have been realized.

You may not believe it, but the demand for trained men and women has never been so great before. And, employers whose time is precious, scan the Situations Wanted column of The Constitution's Classified daily in search of competent men and women to help them push their business ahead.

Surely 15 cents is a small sum to spend to meet these men who seek you there. If you don't connect today, there's tomorrow and the next day. Your ad runs three times for 15 cents.

Dividend Cut in Half.

Boston, June 24.—The Arlington Mills of Lawrence, second in size to the American Woolen company, cut its dividend in half today, declaring a rate of 2 per cent for six months. This is the lowest rate since 1881. Poor business, impending tariff changes and the garment workers' strikes of last winter are given as the only causes of the reduction. The mills are now employing only a little more than half the normal force of 6,000 hands.

TROOPERS WILL FIGHT SHAM BATTLE TODAY

Blanks Have Been Furnished the Soldiers and an Exciting Affray Is Anticipated.

By Ogie Grice.

Brunswick Ga., June 24.—(Special.)—Maneuvers are now on in earnest at Camp Brown. The company of the Third battalion, under Major Hunter, advanced as skirmishers in battle line across the end of the island, and finally ended the mock fighting with a bayonet charge.

The troops of the Second squadron maneuvered extensively. The squadron advanced up the island in battle formation and all movements were skillfully executed.

Pistol firing by the officers of the Second squadron was held on the beach at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, under the direction of Major Seamans. A number of excellent scores were made. All officers are qualifying as expert pistol shots.

Guard Mount Impressive.

The guard is mounted at 9:30 every morning. One troop is on guard duty at a time. The guard mount is very impressive and is always watched by interested persons.

The band of the First Georgia and the trumpeters' squad of the Second squadron furnished the music. Adjutant McCollum and Sergeant Major Oxford participate as principals in this.

Troop A. was relieved Tuesday by troop B. Troop F performs guard duty on Wednesday, troop L on Thursday and troop K on Friday.

One troop is given a thirty minute lecture each day by the camp's surgeon, Captain Pearce, on sanitary conditions and other matters relative to the health of the camp. The camp is very sanitary, indeed. Absolutely no flies are found here, and mosquitoes have given minor inconvenience.

Sham Battle Wednesday.

Much interest is centered here in the sham battle, which will occur early Wednesday morning. The nature of Wednesday's battle will be absolutely new to Georgia cavalry, as it is the troops of the squadron assemble in heavy marching order and march out of Camp Brown towards the beach. At a selected site the troopers will halt and go into light camp.

They are supposed to be anticipating a battle. Later trenches will be thrown up. Out-posts will, of course, be placed. The squadron out-posts will be head to fire as the enemy approaches, and the entire squadron will be formed and hurry to meet the enemy. As blanks have been furnished an exciting affray is anticipated.

NEW TRADE TREATY SUGGESTED BY RUSSIA

Washington, June 24.—Responding to a suggestion made some time ago by the Russian government, Secretary Bryan has informed Ambassador Bakhmeteff that he would be glad to enter into negotiations for a new treaty of trade and commerce between America and Russia. No attempt has been made actually to open negotiations as yet, and it is understood that the ambassador, who has communicated Secretary Bryan's message to his government, is awaiting instructions from St. Petersburg.

Secretary Bryan stated today that the exchanges had not passed beyond the expression of a mutual desire to have a new treaty and that there had been no attempt to outline the basis of a new convention.

It has been reported from St. Petersburg that President Wilson had notified the Russian government his administration would be willing to enter into a new treaty only upon the condition that American citizens be "freely admitted" to Russia.

Since the abrogation of the old commercial treaty, as a result of feeling against restrictions imposed by Russia upon the entry of American Jews, the necessity for a new convention has been demonstrated in various ways. However, there has been no indication that either government is prepared to recede from its attitude toward the question at issue before.

KILLS WIFE AND SELF IN A JEALOUS RAGE

Three Little Children of H. Clay Mills Spectators of the Double Tragedy.

Mobile, Ala., June 24.—H. Clay Mills, a prominent naval stores operator of Atmore, Ala., early this morning shot his wife to death with an automatic shotgun, then blew out his own brains with the same weapon. It is said the deed was the result of a fit of jealous rage. Three little children of the couple were in the house at the time of the tragedy. Mills and his wife were both prominently connected in south Alabama and Mississippi.

Mills fired three charges from an automatic shotgun into the body of his wife, killing her instantly. He then placed the muzzle of the weapon against his throat and fired a shot which tore off the entire top of his head.

ATLANTA'S STRIDES, DAY BY DAY

ALL THE NEWS OF REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING

Real estate dealers of Atlanta are speculating as to whether the present session of the legislature will take any action in regard to the lease of the W. & A. railroad on the viaduct tracks, which will expire at the end of six years.

For some time there has been a movement on foot to have this covered with a plaza, and the latter bordered with shrubbery, etc., which would make one of the most beautiful driveways in the heart of the city.

As one real estate dealer said: "What really should be done is to make the railroad lower their tracks fifteen feet, and, then build the plaza. This would do away with the grading and would enhance property values all along the way as well. If necessary, electric engines could be used to pull the trains in and out of the two stations."

Activity in the real estate field was marked Tuesday. There were a large number of medium-sized transactions, and several large ones.

One evidence of the enhancing values of Atlanta real estate shown by the sale of a corner plot at Ponce de Leon and Highland avenue to Dr. M. Arnswould. It faces 150 feet on Ponce de Leon and 90 feet on Highland avenue, and sold for $18,800. Five days later Dr.

SEEDS, POULTRY AND POULTRY SUPPLIES NORTH AND SOUTH SIDE DELIVERIES 9 A. M. INMAN PARK AND WEST END 2 P. M. BOTH PHONES 2503.

ONE of the greatest drawbacks to poultry raising in the south is lice. They kill more little chicks than all the diseases combined and when a hen is full of lice she cannot expect her to lay many eggs. However, if you start in time you can get rid of these pests without very much trouble. Cleanliness is the main thing to consider, keep the house cleaned out and once a week at least spray thoroughly all the roosts, dropping boards and nests with Pratt's or Conkey's Lice Liquid, they are both good preparations and are guaranteed to kill. It is also a good plan to use lice powder. A 25c box of Conkey's lice powder will dust about 75 hens and if used in connection with lice liquid you can soon have your flock free from these pests, and you can soon see the good results from the increased egg production.

ARE your baby chicks lousy? Better examine them and if they are, get a package of Conkey's or Pratt's Head lice ointment prepared especially for baby chicks, rub a little back of the head and under each wing; it will positively kill every louse and not injure the chick. 10c and 25c package.

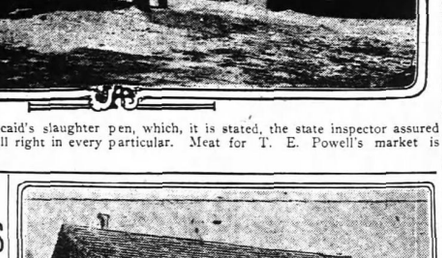
DEFEND CONDITION OF SLAUGHTER PENS

Griffin Meat Dealers Are Up in Arms Over Report of Dr. Hutchens.

Griffin, Ga., June 24.—(Special.)—The chief topic for consideration here continues to be the situation regarding the meat houses and slaughter pens that were so severely criticised by Dr. George Hutchens in his report that state authorities last week. A number of people have to visit the slaughter pens to observe for themselves the conditions.

The meat dealers here are emphatic in their statements that exaggerations are numerous in the report, and they feel that an injustice has been done, not only to their business, but also to the town-at-large. To set themselves right before the citizens of Griffin and to show their resentment of the unfair deal that has been handed them, the meat dealers here are advising them, the meat dealers here are adopting half-page advertisements and offering large rewards if conditions can be found so bad at their places as the report of Dr. Hutchens declares.

Much interest is taken in the matter to see against whom proceedings will be brought. The meat dealers think they have a few cards up their sleeves they can play also, when it comes to a show-down. They say that Findley Kincaid's slaughter pen, that was so severely condemned, is all right, according to an alleged statement made last Tuesday by Dr. Hutchens to Mr. Kincaid himself. D. S. Johnson's pen is located immediately over a running stream, and was not visited at all by the inspector, according to the negro butcher who was at the pen all day the inspections were made.



Front view of T. J. Oxford's slaughter pen, and family living within a short distance of the pen. There has been no sickness in this family in the eight years they have lived there. Oxford says he will give $100 if his place is the one referred to.

MARINES TRY TO ESCAPE FROM SAVANNAH PRISON

Savannah, Ga., June 24.—An attempted jail delivery was made at the city barracks last night by George Finnan and Eskene Deger, two United States marines from Port Royal, who were incarcerated in the police barracks on a charge of desertion. Breaking an iron lever from a tank in the cell toilet, the men succeeded in tearing out the mortar between the brick under the cell window, after a futile attempt to escape from the toilet by the same means. They succeeded in removing two bricks before being discovered by the station house officers.

The deserters were returned to Port Royal today in the custody of the officer who arrested them several days ago upon identification cards. Rewards of $50 each were offered for the arrest of the men.

IMPERATOR NOT LIKED BY MEMBERS OF CREW

Hoboken, N. J., June 24.—A thousand members of the crew of the giant liner Imperator, now in port here, had a mass meeting late last night and adopted resolutions denouncing working conditions on the vessel, demanding the better sleeping accommodations and a nine-hour day. The resolutions will be presented to the Imperator's commander.

The protestants include stewards, pantry cooks, coal trimmers and firemen. Speakers who addressed them said that the men had been "treated like pigs." Sixteen hours work a day was not unusual and the sanitary equipment was inadequate, it was declared.

BOY PLAYS WITH SNAKE AND ESCAPES UNHURT

Belleview, Fla., June 24.—J. H. Maxwell, jr., the 2-year-old son of J. H. Maxwell of this place, is alive after playing just as usual today, despite the fact that he had as a playmate for several minutes yesterday a great rattlesnake, which he picked up in the yard of his father's home.

The little fellow came running into the house with the snake in his hand, laughing in great glee at his find. The snake was wriggling and attempting to strike him when his father seized and killed it. That the child was not bitten was purely good fortune.

MOOSE TO ENTERTAIN AT THE ELITE TONIGHT

The members will meet at the lodge rooms at 8 o'clock, proceeding to the Elite theater in a body. Those invited guests and members who are unable to meet at the hall will go to the theater direct, where the entertainment committee will be on hand to welcome them.

P. L. Holt, Americus.

Mr. Holt was a native of Macon, but for nearly thirty years has resided in Americus, engaged in business here. He is survived by his wife, three sons and two daughters. Funeral services tomorrow morning.

DESERTING SEAMAN KILLS SELF RATHER THAN BE ARRESTED

Savannah, Ga., June 24.—Rather than submit to arrest for leaving the ship without permission, Theodore Katon, a seaman of the United States ship Tacoma, now in port, ended his life while standing in a public square this morning. Private L. E. Woods, a marine and Master-at-Arms H. Italian and J. Dougherty were detailed to arrest Katon. When they located him it was seen that the seaman was armed. They called for assistance from a policeman. When they surrounded the sailor he drew a revolver.

"I'll kill myself before I'll return," Eaton cried.

The next instant he pressed the revolver against his breast and fired. He died in a few minutes.

Eaton was the son of Mrs. Mary J. Eaton, of Port Washington, N. Y.

SOUTHERN METHODISTS TO DISCUSS MISSIONS

Asheville, N. C., June 24.—Delegates and church dignitaries from all sections of the United States, as well as representatives from foreign countries, including Japan, China and Korea, are passing through this section tonight en route to Waynesville, where the general missionary conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, will open tomorrow night. All sessions of the conference, which will last for five days, will be held at the new southern assembly grounds, comprising 1,200 acres, surrounding Lake Junaluska.

Bishop James Atkins, of Waynesville, will preside at the opening session tomorrow night.

The entire college of bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, will attend the conference, the majority of the members being on the speakers' list. Among the prominent visitors who will address the meetings are Mrs. Lucy Rider Meyer, of Chicago; Bishop R. G. Waterhouse, of Los Angeles; Rev. Charles Stelzle, of New York, and Rev. B. D. Gray, D. D., of Atlanta.

Hagen Kills Saunders.

Carrabelle, Fla., June 24.—Joseph C. Saunders was shot and instantly killed last night by J. C. Hagen, an engineer. The coroner's jury rendered a verdict of murder. Feeling ran so high that to prevent a lynching, the sheriff rushed Hagen to a fast launch he chartered to Appalachicola for safe keeping. Saunders was a leading citizen, an officer of the militia, member of the town council and high in secret orders. The shooting followed an argument over wages due Hagen had been drinking, it is said.

IT WILL TAKE VOTE TO SETTLE BATTLE

M. DuBose, Chairman Executive Committee Anti-Saloon League, Atlanta, Ga. Dear Sir: I have this afternoon your letter of this date, reading as follows: 'The temperance people of Georgia are greatly interested in the passage of a bill to prohibit common carriers from shipping into and delivering liquor in this state, thus enabling us to profit by the passage of the Webb bill. Will you, if elected president of the senate, support such a measure as I exhibit in every legitimate way to secure its enactment".

"In reply I beg to say that in view of the enactment by congress of the Webb bill, and in consideration of the fact that the fixed present policy of our state is in favor of prohibition, I will, as an individual senator, consider that a bill to give effect to the Webb law would be proper legislation to be enacted, just as I would, as an individual senator consider it proper to prohibit the publication of liquor advertisements. You have not furnished me with a copy of the proposed bill, and I cannot therefore be more specific in regard to a bill I have never seen.

"Your letter is evidently intended for my views not only as an individual senator, but also as president of the senate. I would not in advance of my election pledge my official action either to the support or to the opposition of any particular measure. To do so would, I consider, reflect upon my honor as a man and on my integrity as an official. I am willing to cheerfully pledge that to the proposed legislation is offered, it shall receive absolute fair and impartial treatment in every respect at my hands. This letter may be submitted to all the prohibition senators who are supporting me, and with their approval, is sent with their sanction and direction. Very truly yours,

(Signed) "RANDOLPH ANDERSON."

The following statement as their position in the matter was furnished by the anti-saloon league:

"It is not province of the Anti-Saloon league to endorse candidates for office. It is their province to obtain information at first hand as far as may be as to the position of candidates for public office on pending temperance legislation and lay it before the people of the state. This we have done with perfect fairness to both the distinguished gentlemen. It is left up to the temperance men in the senate, most if whom know the gentlemen personally and in their records, to give preference legislation, to decide conscientiously which of these men can be most faithful to the interests of the responsible office to which they aspire. We beg the prohibitionists in the senate to lay aside all personal and factional consideration and decide between these men on the interest of good morals in the state."

Today Will Decide.

There is no doubt that great pressure will be brought today to bear on the prohibition senators who are supporting Mr. Anderson. Upon the success met with in the effort to shake these prohibition senators the result will largely depend.

Senator W. W. Stark, of the thirty-third, chosen selected by Mr. Anderson to present his name to the senate, Judge Allen did not announce Tuesday night whom he had selected to present his name.

Anderson's Final Statement.

The following statement as to the outlook was given out by Mr. Anderson last night:

"My election is a certainty and all that remains to be done is the taking of the vote. All of the twenty-eight senators who had pledged me their support are on hand. I now have thirty-two certain votes. Each of the thirty-nine senators on the list knows who the others are and have met each other at our headquarters and each one knows that all we have to do is to sit steady to make victory certain. Men have been known in politics to desert their side to get on the band wagon, but no one has been known to jump out of a band wagon after he once knew that he was safely seated in it.

"In the statements given to the press by my opponent and his friends, a manifest attempt has been made to create the impression that big corporations and manufacturing interests are backing my candidacy. There is absolutely no truth in this statement as far as I am concerned I have seen and heard more evidences of the big corporations (their money) back of my opponent than me than for me. Of all the well known railroad attorneys in Atlanta, only one is giving me help and he is my first cousin and has been for years.

"Even in the senate, one of the senators who is attorney for the Seaboard, for the Southern railway and for the supporting my opponent. This should satisfy any candid mind that not even the road I am said to represent is exerting its influence on my behalf.

"It is also insidiously and busily whispered that I own large interests in cotton manufacturing plants and in breweries. Some years ago the Rev. Dr. Broughton openly made this charge and was promptly called down. At that time I stated that I did have ten shares of stock in the Savannah Brewing company, which I had owned for many years, and which I have held only because I could not find any other interest whatever of that kind. Since that time I have disposed of that small interest and I no longer have a single share of stock in any manufactory or other interest of that character."

Pro Tem. Candidates.

There are only two candidates in the race for the presidency of the senate pro tem, Senator Hardeman, E. L. Smith, of the ninth, and Senator W. J. Bush, of the eighth. Little interest seemed to be felt in this contest, but it seemed to be the opinion of most senators that Mr. Smith would win.

Burwell Next Speaker.

W. H. Burwell, representative from Hancock county, will be unanimously elected speaker of the Georgia house of representatives when the legislature meets at 10 o'clock this morning.

He will be put in nomination for the place by Representative L. R. Akin, of Elbert, and no other nominations will be offered. The withdrawal of his two opponents, R. N. Hardeman, of Jefferson, and J. E. Sheppard, of Sumter, Tuesday cinched the speakership for Mr. Burwell. Mr. Sheppard withdrew from the race early in the day.

Hardeman Withdraws.

Mr. Hardeman held a conference with his supporters between 11 and 12 o'clock, at which it was decided that, inasmuch as the withdrawal of Sheppard had made Burwell's election certain, it was best for Mr. Hardeman himself not to continue longer in the race. Mr. Hardeman issued the following statement announcing his withdrawal:

"My friends have carefully canvassed the situation with reference to the campaign for the speakership of the house. It is now so near the time for the general assembly to convene that I deem it fair and just to my friends to make a frank statement.

"I am thankful, for the good of Georgia, that the campaign has been waged without bitterness. I have been unfair to my friends only, in that I have not been as active as I should. I have labored without the assistance of any organization or interest, but solely with the assistance of my able and loyal friends as ever blest a man's life, and I shall remember them and love them so long as I live.

"The political success of no candidate for an office is essential to the peace, happiness or prosperity of the great state. Nor is such success essential to the happiness of the candidate himself. I have experienced more great happiness in the interest and loyal support of my friends in this race than I ever could in the mere success of the speaker's chair. I would rather have these friends without any public office than to occupy the highest place without the friends.

Has No Unkind Feeling.

"With sincerity I can state that there is no feeling of bitterness in my heart for any member of the house. I love them all who love Georgia, and want to see her in the front rank of the states. There are many things to be done this summer, and I shall be ready at any and all times to unite hand and heart with all my friends in the house in any work looking to the welfare of Georgia and her people. While I have had, and now have, a considerable number of friends who are loyal in their support, I am convinced that the number is not sufficient to elect me, and in justice to them I now retire from the race for speaker."

Only Two in Pro Tem. Fight.

As the only candidates for the pro tem speakership pro tem. have now withdrawn except two, Representatives E. H. McMichael, of Atlanta, and Dr. S. J. Stovall, of Elbert, that contest will be decided by a single ballot. The third candidate in the race, John P. Cheney, of Dublin, retired Tuesday, while Representative John C. Foster, of Floyd, who was reported to be in the fight, has never pressed his claims and will not be put in nomination.

This will enable the house to organize for business at an early hour and receive Governor Brown's final message to the general assembly on the first day of the session. As the message is a lengthy one, its formal reading may be dispensed with, but a copy will be placed on each member's desk for him to read at leisure.

Meet at 10 O'Clock.

Both houses of the general assembly will convene this morning in their respective chambers promptly at 10 o'clock. The house will be called to order by Clerk John T. Boifeuillet and the senate by Secretary Charles S. Northen.

The houses will proceed at once to the election of their presiding officers. As soon as a speaker pro tem. will be elected for the house and a president pro tem. for the senate. Then a clerk and secretary will be elected and the subordinate offices filled.

As soon as the houses are organized committees will be appointed to notify the governor, at which time his annual message will be received.

PORTER "COMES BACK" TO ATHENS AND IS SENT TO STOCKADE

Athens, Ga., June 24.—(Special.)—In a few minutes after he "came back" after being "jailed" from the dead, Robert L. Porter, well known here, was arrested by the police last night and in another hour was in the stockade and with convict's uniform. The first day's manual labor he had done in twenty years was done today.

Porter, who was once a power in city politics, was found guilty in three successive cases for selling liquor. The third time, instead of paying a fine of $200, he was given a sentence of six months straight. He appealed to council and then to the superior court and in each tribunal was decided against. He then appealed to the court of appeals, but withdrew that appeal when an agreement was reached by which he promised to leave the state for good. Eight indictments in superior court for selling liquor, gambling, running a gambling house and operating a disorderly house were also held over him, it being understood that he was to leave. He went to Chattanooga and was employed by a liquor house there.

Yesterday he came back and offered to bet $100 that he would never serve his stockade sentence, visiting the mayor's office to offer that bet in person. He was sent immediately to the stockade.

STAND OF BISHOPS SCORED BY W. R. COLE

Whiteford R. Cole, of Nashville, secretary of the board of trust of vanderbilt university, has had a reply to the attacks of Bishop E. E. Hoss and Bishop Warren A. Candler on Andrew Carnegie's offer of $1,000,000 to the medical department of the university published in The Nashville Banner, in which he scores the two bishops for the stand which they took.

Mr. Cole said that the bishops were bent upon the triumph of an idea—the control of the university by the church—and that in order to reach this end they were even willing to deprive the university of money necessary for its progress.

The order calls for a two-floor, double level to accommodate the needs of the city. July 15 is set for a hearing on all plans and specifications of all interested persons.

At The Theaters.

Musical Comedy Tabloid.

(At the Bijou.)

The Bijou is offering this wek one of the most entertaining musical comedy tabloids of the season. "The Mary Whirl" is in two acts with special scenery and light effects and lots of pretty songs and wholesome comedy. Miss Marjorie Lake, who has been advertised as the woman with the phenomenal voice, has quite captured patrons of the Bijou. Miss Lake has a really marvelous voice, a clear, bell-like baritone, and it has been difficult to convince Bijou audiences that the singer is not a man, but before her songs are ended she sings a number in a clear soprano voice that quickly dispels all illusions. Three comedians who are responsible for the comedy are Lew Miller, Harry Loder and Sol H. Carter.

DINNER PARTY GIVEN IN HONOR OF SUTTON

An attractive dinner party on the roof garden of the Capital City club was given last night in honor of George M. Sutton, postoffice inspector for this district, who soon leaves for Kansas City, where he will be connected with the postal department. The table was especially decorated for the occasion, and a tempting menu served. The following gentlemen were present: Thomas J. Peeples, cashier of the American National bank; H. L. McKee, postmaster of Atlanta; M. O. Markham, collector of the port; Robert Clark, R. F. Shedden, state manager of the Mutual Life Insurance company, and Charles Winship, of the Continental Gin company.

ATLANTA'S STRIDES FROM DAY TO DAY

Massoud refused $18,500 for the plot of ground. This was part of a plot of ground which formerly fronted 250 feet on Ponce de Leon, the entire plot having sold on February 24, 1912, for $15,000. All of the transactions in this case were handled by George Ware, of the Ware & Harper agency.

The Ware & Harper agency announced Tuesday the sale of 53 Orme street, which is a six-room cottage on a lot, 41x190 feet, for Mrs. M. S. Hewett to a client for $5,500.

COTTON LESS ACTIVE, OFFERINGS LIGHT

During Afternoon New Crop Positions Held Higher. Spot Quiet.

New York, June 24.—The cotton market was much less active today and prices fluctuated within a range of 4 or 5 points, closing steady, net 1 point lower to 3 points higher.

The market opened steady at unchanged prices to an advance of 2 points and sold about 4 to 7 points net higher during the early trading, on covering by recent sellers and renewed support from local bulls on reactionists, who probably thought that yesterday's rebound of about 35 points from the best was entitled to more than some recovery. There was little criticism of prevailing weather conditions, however, while Liverpool was again a seller here on the advance and the market soon turned a shade easier under these offerings orscattered realizing.

The weekly weather report was considered generally favorable, and beyond a few scattering complaints of spotted conditions in the eastern belt there was nothing in the crop news to create sentiment on the bull side but offerings continued light during the afternoon and new crop positions held 2 or 3 points above the closing figures of last night. July and August showed relatively easy, with July selling off to 1199 or about 16 points below the recent high level.

Next Friday will be the first July notice day in the local market.

Cotton, spot closed quiet; middling uplands, 12.30; middling gulf, 12.55; sales, none.

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, June 24.—Cotton was quiet, but steady, throughout today's session of the market. Favorable crop and weather reports had their effect on prices and failed to stimulate much short selling. On the contrary, the bulls were not aggressive, and bought only at intervals. At no time there was more little liquidation of the long interest, and offerings came principally from this source.

The opening was steady at an advance of 1 to 3 points on good cables. The favorable weather map, showing showers and warmer temperature over the cotton region, held buying power in check after initial offerings, unfavorable accounts from traveling crops (particularly) caused a small buying wave, and put prices to a level 5 points up. Realizing sales, because of the report of young bolls in central Mississippi and of the earliest bloom in record in important counties in Texas.

At the outset of the morning prices were 4 to 7 points up. Liquidation checked the advance and in the afternoon caused a sag, the market standing at the lowest point of the day, 1 point higher compared with the closing level of yesterday. Some little buying developed in the last half hour of business, and the market closed steady, net unchanged to 1 point higher.

Dry Goods.

New York, June 24.—A fair sprinkling of orders was received from the jobbers in the primary cotton goods market and there was a moderate volume of gray goods moved, principally for nearby needs. However, several thousand bales of heavyweight and coarse yarn goods were sold to China. Retailers were in the market making small purchases for nearby needs, which will be delayed greatly on account of labor troubles. Price questions for men's wear were opened for next spring at late dealers' quotations.

ALEX McADIE,
Section Director Weather Bureau.

John F. Black & Co.

New York, June 24.—It was a very waiting market today, with July 1 down and December 3 points up. The next government report is due July 8 and many are looking forward to it, but the market is now more interested in the new crop than in anything else. The weather has been announced that there has been change made in the forecaster handling the cotton. The condition reports put out heretofore have been bearish and the report will be the demand there is for it next week seems to be more bullish than ever, and the market is on a good foundation.

Liverpool is due to close 11¼ to 2 down.

HOT WINDS HURTING WHEAT IN THE FIELDS

This Report From the Dakotas Advanced the Price of Wheat.

Chicago, June 24.—Pessimistic crop advices, due to hot winds and to lack of moisture, came today from so many points in the Dakotas that active buying of wheat resulted, and prices took an upward bend. The market closed nervous, 1@1¼c to 3-8@1-2c over last night. Corn finished with a net gain of 3-8 to 1-2@5-8c, and oats showing an advance of 1-8 to 1-2@5-8c. Provisions closed from 2 1-2c decline to an advance of 2 1-2@5c.

It was not until after an opening dip in prices that the wheat market began to respond to the crop scare. When once the news from the Dakotas had made an impression, however, winter interest advices and all other developments were treated as though of minor importance. The first dispatch that attracted special attention was from a well known expert, who declared that 600,000 acres were in such condition that nothing but general soaking rains at once could save any material part of the crop. The feature that especially received attention, too, was the fact the damage reports from both North and South Dakota were more numerous and covered a wider area than at any time since the first crop alarm. Export clearances of wheat today were 544,000 bushels; a year ago (for two days) 474,000 bushels.

Corn started lower, on account of general rains in the important states, but rallied, owing to a falling off in rural offerings. The wheat bulge also had considerable influence against the bears.

Iowa reports that injury to the crops there amounted to 10 per cent helped put firmness into oats.

Second action of hog prices made provisions firmer. Final quotations averaged slightly higher with gain.

INCOMES OF $3,000 ARE TO BE TAXED

Heads of Families, However, Will Pay on $4,000 With $500 Additional for Each Minor Child.

Washington, June 24.—Radical changes in the income tax plan of the Underwood tariff bill and alteration of the administrative features of the measure to overcome most of the objections raised by foreign governments, were agreed upon in a tentative way today by the democratic members of the senate finance committee.

The income tax, under the new plan, would apply to individual incomes over $3,000, but would make important exemptions for individuals, municipalities, civic bodies and mutual insurance companies.

Changes in the administrative sections include a new provision giving the president authority to increase tariff duties against certain foreign articles coming from countries that discriminate against the United States.

The proposed 5 per cent concession in tariff on goods brought in American ships, the anti-dumping clause, and the provision giving United States authorities "inquisitorial powers" to examine books of foreign manufacturers when the valuation of goods in question were stricken out. These provisions brought protests from many foreign nations.

Democrats of the committee made it clear today that some further changes might be made in the income tax and administrative sections before they were reported to the senate caucus, but the revised sections, as made public today, are expected to stand with but little alteration until the caucus reaches them.

Vote on Sugar Today.

Some democrats in the caucus on the bill spent the entire day on wool and sugar. Just before adjournment tonight Chairman Simmons, of the finance committee, secured agreement to vote upon both not later than 4 o'clock tomorrow. No amendment to the free wool provision has been offered, but the majority senators express their opinions on two sugar amendments. Senator Smith offered to fix the rate at the end of three years at about one-half cent a pound, instead of the list provision now in the bill. Senator Thornton offered a second amendment to provide that the rates remain as they are in the Payne-Aldrich act.

It was regarded as probable tonight that the anti-sugar men would get together tomorrow before the vote is taken to decide to concentrate their support behind one amendment, if the other is beaten. Leaders of the majority were confident that despite the oratory against free sugar it would be retained in the bill and that only the two Louisiana senators would be found opposed to it when the measure reaches the senate.

New Form of Income Tax.

Under the proposed new form of the income tax, an additional exemption of $1,000 would be allowed to married men or married women with dependent wives or husbands, not taxable under this law, $500 would be added for each dependent child living with and dependent upon the taxable parent. In case both parties being taxable, however, no exemption for child would apply.

Other important changes in the plan include the exemption from taxation of that portion of the premiums collected by mutual life or mutual marine insurance companies which may be returned to policy-holders in the form of dividends. The taxation of this portion of their income had been bitterly opposed by the insurance companies. The Underwood bill had exempted only mutual fire insurance companies on this basis.

Chambers of commerce, civic bodies cities, counties and states are added to the class of organizations whose income will not be taxable.

To secure the payment of tax upon "coupons, checks or bills of exchange" collected for foreign residents, a provision was added requiring all firms collecting such funds to secure license from a commissioner of internal revenue, so the amount of their collections might at any time be inquired into.

The revision of the administrative features eliminates many of the reforms proposed in the Underwood bill as it passed the house, the senate committee proposes an amendment, however, providing for a joint committee to investigate the revenue administration laws with the view to "simplifying, harmonizing, revising and codifying" them.

This committee would consist of three senators, to be appointed by the vice president, and four members of the ways and means committee, to be appointed by the speaker, and their recommendations would be required to be reported not later than February 1, 1914. An appropriation of $15,000 for the investigation is recommended.

Retaliatory Power for Wilson.

The specified articles and rates to which the authority of the president to make retaliatory increases in duties would extend as follows:

"Fish, all kinds, 1 cent per pound; coffee, 3 cents per pound; tea, 10 cents per pound.

"On the following articles one and one-fourth times the rate specified in the bill:

"Earthenware, stone and chinaware, expressed oils, lemons, cheese, wines of all kinds, malt liquors, knitted goods, silk dresses and silk goods, leather gloves, laces and embroideries of whatever material composed and articles made wholly or in part of the same; toys, jewelry and precious, semi-precious and imitation precious stones, suitable for use in the manufacture of jewelry.

"On the following, in addition to the regular duties as provided in the bill, the duties specified below:

"Sugars, etc., testing by the polariscope not above 75 degrees, 15-100 per cent per pound and for every additional degree by the polariscope test an additional 1-100 per cent per pound; molasses, 2 cents per gallon.

"On wool of the sheep, hair of the Angora goat, alpaca and other like animals and all wools and hair on the skins of such animals and all wool wastes, 15 per cent ad valorem."

The president could revoke his proclamation whenever satisfied that the discriminations had ceased to exist.

In striking out provisions against which foreign nations protested, the senate democrats acted upon the belief that the proposed requirements were "unnecessarily inquisitive," and would hamper importation and possibly provoke retaliation.

Articles manufactured by child labor would be excluded, together with convict labor goods, through an amendment by Senator Borah, which the finance committee adopted. It would exclude all foreign goods except immediate products of agriculture, forests and fisheries, manufactured wholly or in part by convict labor or by children under 14 years of age.

TRIAL OF LEO FRANK POSTPONED BY JUDGE

Date of Trial Changed From June 30 Until July 28 at Plea of Attorneys for Defense.

The first appearance in open court of the indictment against Leo M. Frank for the murder of Mary Phagan came yesterday afternoon when Judge L. S. Roan, presiding over the criminal division of superior court, summoned attorneys for both sides, and after a hearing changed the date of trial from June 30, as set by Solicitor Hugh M. Dorsey, to July 28.

This and the legal move by the defense in serving upon Solicitor Dorsey, Police Chief James L. Peavey, Detective Chief Newport Lanford and other detectives and officials for the state, with formal subpoenas duces tecum, commanding them to bring to court all affidavits they may have which bear upon the Phagan murder case against Frank, were the only changes in the present situation.

Where Trial Will be Held.

Judge Roan also decided that the trial of Frank would be held not in the regular room in which he holds his division of court, but in one of the rooms in which the civil division of the superior court sits.

This action was decided upon because the ceiling is very low in the courtroom in the Thrower building, where his court usually sits, and the room is ventilated by windows only on one side. The trial will be held, according to present plans, in one of the courtrooms on the fourth floor, corner South Pryor and East Hunter streets, where the ceilings are higher and windows can be thrown open on both sides of the room to allow ventilation.

Solicitor Dorsey appeared very anxious to have the trial take place on June 30, the date he had in his official capacity as solicitor, named. He states that his only reason for this is that the state is ready, and he is anxious to dispose of the case as soon as possible.

This date was stricken out by Judge Roan when Attorney Reuben Arnold, for the defense, came out with the statement that the trial would last two weeks. July 14, another date suggested, was left out upon the statement by Attorney Arnold and Attorney Luther Z. Rosser, both for the defense, that they would be engaged in the trial of Mrs. Mattie Flanders, in Swainsboro, Ga. At that time the two Atlanta attorneys will be working together in the Frank defense, will oppose each other. Attorney Rosser will represent the defendant while his colleague will aid the prosecution.

Judge Roan, in announcing his determination of the trial date, stated that he believed that it was necessary to set a definite date, formally agreed upon by both sides, to help eliminate the possibility of further delay. The judge took the position that the case, while before the law similar to any other, is really different in that it will be one in which many veniremen and witnesses must be brought into court, and a postponement would cost the state a large sum of money.

Both sides announced in court that they would be ready when the time comes.

"I'm ready now to take up the trial," said the solicitor, "that's why I am objecting to any postponement."

"We are ready ourselves," said both attorneys for the defense.

The public declarations make it appear that the trial will actually take place on the July date set, and that, unless something new should appear, there will be no further delay.

Solicitor Dorsey refused later to discuss the service of a duces tecum upon him. He declined to state what would be his action in regard to the matter, or what in his opinion was its legal bearing upon the case.

May Attack Conley Statement.

The subpoenas declare that the papers and affidavits are wanted as evidence for the defense of Frank, and leads to the belief that the defense will make an attack upon the various statements of James Conley, the negro sweeper, who has declared in an affidavit that he aided Frank in hiding the Phagan girl's body. The several affidavits alleged to have been made by the Conley negro are included in the subpoenas, as are the affidavits credited to Miss Monteen Stover and Miss Grace Hix.

Another affidavit demanded from all of the parties subpoenaed is that of W. M. Mathews. The name of Mathews has not yet appeared publicly in the Phagan case, and his affidavit, if there is such a one, is believed to have been secured by Solicitor Dorsey and held in secret by him. Just how the defense succeeded in finding out that there is such an affidavit, or getting reasons for declaring that there is one, in their demand for it, is not explained. The solicitor refuses to discuss this affidavit, and the other officials deny all knowledge of it.

The others named in the subpoenas duces tecum besides those already mentioned are: Assistant Solicitor E. A. Stephens, Harry Scott, a Pinkerton detective, employed by the National Pencil company, but working with the city detectives on the case; City Detectives John Black, Pat Campbell and J. N. Starnes and G. C. Febuary, secretary to Chief Lanford.

Confers With Assistant.

Solicitor Dorsey is still taking up various points in the case and going over them with his assistant and with Attorney Frank Hooper, retained to aid the state. He spent several hours late Tuesday evening in conference with Detectives Campbell and Starnes. He has also planned several changes in an elaborate drawing of the National pencil factory, which he had specially drawn from measurements.

Bert Green, a newspaper artist, who made the drawing for the state, is the same man who, while employed in New York, made the diagrams of a New York roof garden in the famous case against Harry K. Thaw for the murder of Stanford White.

Conley Is Grilled.

Jim Conley, the negro pencil factory sweeper, was subjected to a secret grilling at police headquarters yesterday shortly before noon. Detectives say it was in an effort to extract some new statement, but declare that the negro divulged nothing of fresh importance. Chief Lanford would not talk to reporters regarding the examination.

Conley was taken to the chief's office, as has heretofore been the custom. Detectives Campbell and Starnes and others took him to a vacant cell in the extreme rear of the prison, where he was questioned for an hour or more.

The negro's counsel, Attorney William M. Smith, Jr., was not aware of the examination. He says, however, that nothing new was gained from Conley, and that he was questioned only in regard to a possible desire to make additional statements.

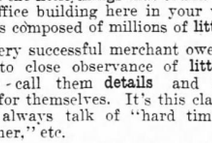
BRICK SMASHES BRIM OF M'DANIEL'S HAT

George W McDaniel, of 24 East Ashland avenue, a clerk for the Southern Ice company, had a narrow escape from death yesterday afternoon when a brick fell from a Whitehall street store and smashed the brim of his hat, covering him with mortar.

Mr. McDaniel was passing the sidewalk in front of the building being remodelled by the Eugene V. Haynes company when, in some way, the brick became dislodged from the second or third story and fell. His shoulder was bruised, but otherwise he was apparently unhurt.



Advertising Drives the Wheels of Trade

It's the little things that count. The tallest office building here in your wonderful city is composed of millions of little things.

Every successful merchant owes his success to close observance of little things. Some call them details and let them care for themselves. It's this class of men who always talk of "hard times," "hot weather," etc.

Take the floor of your store, for instance. Is it as clean and inviting as it could be? That's only a little thing. But what an impression it makes on customers.

And your show cases? Are they fairly dazzling in their brightness? That's another little thing that helps keep the ball a-rolling. So on from the front door to the rear, from cellar to top floor, there are many little things which, if only properly cared for, would help push your business ahead.

How can you expect your advertising to do it all? It isn't fair. Advertising, under the most trying conditions, does accomplish so much that it should be given all the assistance at your command; should be backed up not only with right goods, prices and service, but with the closest attention to those little things which, when well cared for, lead on to the big things in life—which, when neglected, lead to failure.

LAGRANGE EPERIENCES DAY OF CASUALTIES

One Death, Two Bad Accidents, Free-for-All Fight and an Auto Smash.

LaGrange, Ga., June 24.—(Special.)—The day in LaGrange has been one of many casualties. The first was the killing of T. J. Pierson at the Stone & Webster power plant by a pole falling from a wagon. He was in employ of Stone & Webster, of Columbus, Ga., and was 20 years old.

The second casualty was the falling of a man from the top of the Dixie mill tower. He was not killed, but seriously wounded.

The third casualty reported was the serious injury of an employee at the Unity cotton mill.

At a late hour this afternoon a fight occurred in a negro dive near the depot, and five or six negroes were cut to pieces.

After the ball game an auto accident occurred on the square when the machines of Drs. Clark and Hunter crashed together.

LYNCHING AVERTED WHEN NEGRO WOUNDS SANDERSVILLE MAN

Sandersville, Ga., June 24.—(Special.) Joe Rachels, colored, narrowly escaped lynching this morning when he wounded Deputy Sheriff Ben English, who was attempting to arrest him for robbery. The deputy met the negro on the public square and fired in the air to frighten him, when the black advanced and hit him a vicious blow with a club.

A crowd quickly gathered, and the negro was knocked senseless with a rock. Further violence would have occurred had not the advice of cooler members of the crowd prevailed. The black is now in jail. He is badly bruised, and it is thought his skull is fractured.

While Deputy English was having his wound dressed he was told about a strange youth on the streets who corresponded to the description of an ex-convict from the reformatory. English went out and talked to the boy, who admitted he had escaped from Milledgeville. His name is Hallman, and said he was from Gainesville, Ga. The moment English turned his back the boy broke into a run. The crowd quickly gave chase, and soon had him in jail, where he is being held awaiting advices from the officers at Milledgeville.

SYRIAN NOT ENTITLED TO U. S. CITIZENSHIP

Charleston, S. C., June 24.—In the United States district court here today Judge Henry A. M. Smith decided that a Syrian born native of Asiatic birth is not entitled to naturalization as a citizen of the United States. The decision was rendered in the case of Farris Shahid, who was born 39 years ago in Zahle, Asia Minor, and who desired naturalization in order to bring his wife and several children to this country.

"What is the race or color of the modern inhabitants of Syria it is impossible to say," says Judge Smith. "No geographical area of the world has been more mixed since history began. One Syrian may be of pure or almost pure Jewish, Turkish or Greek blood and another the pure-blooded descendant of an Egyptian, an Abyssinian or a Sudanese."

Applicants must reside within the territory supplied by the postoffice at Alapaha. Applications must be filed before the examination.

Waycross, Ga., June 24.—(Special.)—Pending his good behavior upon his dismissal from the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, where he has been serving a 2-year sentence for burning the Waresboro postoffice, the case against Walter Cribb, in Ware superior court, was continued by consent. Cribb was convicted in the United States court at Valdosta and his sentence comes to an end in July.

Desirable Peachtree Lots.

There is no use in going into detail in regard to Peachtree street property. Every person in Atlanta knows Peachtree street, knows its desirability, and knows its PRICE, which as a rule is just a little beyond some of us.

We have had listed with us some unusually pretty building lots, some this side of Buckhead and some just beyond. These lots have a frontage of 100 feet on Peachtree, with a depth of about 425 feet, being beautifully shaded.

The price on these particular lots is from $10.00 to $15.00 under the market, making the PRICE within the reach of anyone who contemplates a Peachtree Home.
